GTA: SAN ANDREAS took the PS2 by storm last fall. Now, it's taking dead aim at Xbox and PC players. Though the basics are the same, that doesn't mean your journey will be easy. Here's how to get rich...or die trying. By Vicious Sid

HOW TO SURVIVE...

Grand Theft Auto: San Andreas

BASIC STRATEGIES

It takes more than big guns and fast cars to conquer an entire state. If you're going to play with the big boys, you'll need to master these skills.

Getting Around Town

Depending on your Stamina level, C.J. can sprint huge distances; just tap Sprint repeatedly. C.J. can also swim in (or under) water: tap Sprint to swim rapidly. But the most welcome new skill is the ability to hoist yourself onto objects (press and hold Jump).

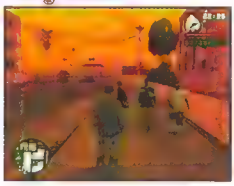
Aiming

Unlike previous GTA titles, you can manually aim and fire any weapon. This will lesson your reliance on auto-aiming. Still, on the PS2 and Xbox versions, you'll find that auto-aiming gets the best results. Crouching is another important technique for improving your accuracy.

Drive-By Shooting

C.J. can perform a drive-by shooting when riding in a vehicle This is primarily useful for wearing down enemy vehicles while driving. When it comes to vehicular combat, however, motorcycles are still king: Bikes allow you to blast straight ahead, which comes in real handy for taking out cars from behind. And try to bring along a few homies—they'll provide some handy cover fire when you're stuck behind the wheel.

Gang Tactics



Though not an integral part of the game, recruiting friendly gang members is a useful tactic. It's particularly useful for large-scale firefights. Once C.J. has enough Respect (earned by completing missions and winning turf wars), he can solicit help from other Grove gangbangers (the green-clad gangstas). Gang members provide potent firepower for drive-by shootings but are too stupid for most other combat scenarios.

Johnny Law

As in previous GTA games, the police represent a constant threat. A lowly one-star Wanted Level (earned by attacking an officer or committing a crime in sight of one) can be enough to ruin you midmission. Bummer! To dodge the heat, try to hide somewhere safe until the stink blows over. Bribes, hidden throughout San Andreas, will also lower your Wanted Level by one star. And finally, the Pay 'N Spray repair shop will completely negate your Wanted Level…if you can reach one in time.

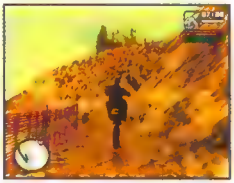
Stats and Abilities

Through practice, C.J. can enhance his various physical abilities. These include Stamina (for sprinting or swimming), the aforementioned Weapon Ability, Strength (through regular exercise and visits to the gym), and Lung Capacity (useful for underwater swimming). For the most part, this process is a transparent one: Your playing style generally will influence your character's abilities, not the other way around.

MISSION WALKTHROUGH (SAN FIERRO AND LAS VENTURAS)

San Fierro and Las Venturas are the toughest cities in San Andreas, so they deserve the most attention. This guide picks up just after the first city, Los Santos.

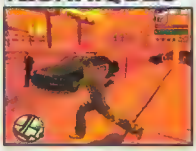
Badlands



This is the first mission you face once you leave the confines of Los Santos. Officer Tenpenny needs you to wipe out a witness. Problem is the witness is in seclusion on top of nearby Mount Chiliad. You don't have any weapons at this point, so you'll want to visit the nearby Ammu-Nation (or just enter a cheat code for simplicity's sake) for ammo and armor. When you're ready, grab the Sanchez dirt bike and head for Mount Chiliad.

The dirt trails are slippery, and it's all too easy to careen of the edge to your doom. If the going gets rough, you may want to ditch the Sanchez altogether. Oftentimes, C.J. can run up nearly vertical walls, a trick that can drastically shorten your trip up the mountain. Once you hit a misty forest clearing, you know that you're getting close. If you're uncertain about where to go, keep an eye on the radar and note whether the blip is pointing up or down.

COMBAT TECHNIQUES



Compared to Vice City, San Andreas has many more intense shootouts. You'll want to spend extra time mastering basic combat skills like aiming and strafing. Practice, practice, practice!

Upgrading Weapon Skill

As you fire your guns, you'll slowly build your accuracy and increase your reloading speed. But why wait? You can improve your abilities by firing at any car or human you see; they don't have to be enemies. If you upset the police (and you will), you can always enter the Lower Wanted Level cheat. Once you max out all your weapon skill levels, you'll earn the ability to dual-wield some of the smaller guns. That's incredibly useful, so take the time early on to max out your abilitiels.

The area around the cabin is crawling with security. Sneak closer, but keep at a distance—walking next to the cliff wall is strongly advised. Once you're close enough, turn your attention to the car. Your goal should be to destroy it as quickly as possible (aim for the engine). If you leave the car intact, the witness will drive away and you'll have to chase him and drag him out before killing him. If you blow up the car with the witness inside it, you'll fail the mission. So don't do it!

Unless you're in critical condition, avoid the cops for now and focus on shooting the witness (take care not to blow off his head—it'll make him unrecognizable). Once he's dead and you've mopped up any other foes, take a photo of the corpse.

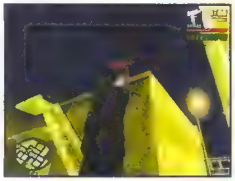
Body Harvest

Once you approach the farm, the local rednecks start pelting you with shotgun blasts. Your best bet is to speed right for the Combine and hijack it as quickly as possible. Once you're safely within its confines, keep moving to prevent the farmers from taking it back. Run over any nearby farmers (splat!) and drive toward the radar blip.

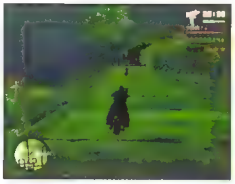
Several swarms of farmers attempt to block your progress, but they're no match for the mighty blades of the Combine. Getting down to The Truth's barn is a problem, though; ramping off the cliff can work, but if you misjudge the landing, you'll flip the Combine and ruin the mission. The safer way is to follow the surrounding country trails down the hillside, but it'll open you up to retaliation from the farmers. Whichever method you choose, get to The Truth's farm, pronto!

Small Town Bank

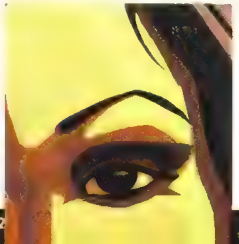
After the customers trigger the alarm, you must quickly blow away each of the ATM machines before collecting the money inside. The Shotgun is well-suited for blowing open the ATMs.



Once you've looted all the ATMs, it's time to head out the back door with Catalina. You face some stiff resistance as you move through the alleyways; cops blast you from the roof and pop out from behind various corners. As you blast them, keep a close watch on your backside—several cops are stationed in tricky positions. Keep scooting and shooting until you find the motorbikes.

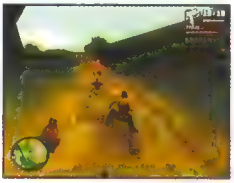


For the most part, Catalina won't need your help. Focus on staying alive, and don't fret if you get separated during the chase. The cops will pin her down at a nearby roadblock, so it's up to you to save the day. Once she's safely on your bike, head for her forest retreat to finish the mission.



Local Liquor Store

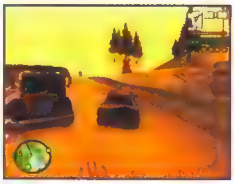
After the cowboys rob the liquor store, speed after them on the Quadbike. Your main foe in this mission is the Quadbike itself: it's a clumsy vehicle that's tough to steer and astonishingly easy to flip, particularly on these dusty country roads. Be patient and try to recover quickly from any mishaps along the way. Patience is key.



Once you catch up with the bandits, tailgate them as closely as possible. Catalina will lend a hand with her assault rifle, but you want to blast away, too, to deal out extra damage. You need to be quick, or the bandits will disappear into a nearby trailer park, and you'll fail the mission. Catalina won't be pleased! Slay them all quickly to avoid her wrath.

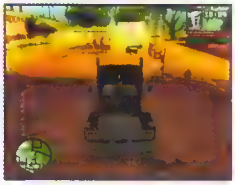
Against All Odds

It's easiest to take Catalina's Buffalo sportscar—it's usually parked just next to her cottage. Once you're in the betting track, you need to blow open the safe with a Satchel Charge. Stick the bomb directly to the safe and then switch to the detonator to trigger the explosion. You've earned a scorching four-star Wanted Level!



Now, it's a high-speed chase to the closest Pay 'N Spray. Expect resistance in the form of police choppers and heavily armed agents. Don't be afraid to bail out of the Buffalo; unless you sprint at top speed, Catalina will follow you pretty much wherever you go—even into the nearby creek. If you encounter repeated problems, you may want to enter the Lower Wanted Level cheat. We won't tell if you don't. If you decide to head for the Pay 'N Spray, you should stay safely parked in the garage until your Wanted Level stops blinking. Otherwise, you may re-ignite the manhunt.

Tanker Commander

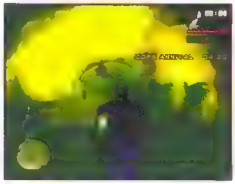


Your first objective is to attach the tanker to the truck cab. This is harder than it sounds, but the good news is that you don't face a time limit. You need to slowly back into the tanker to connect it to the cab; Use your rear camera view to gain a clear vantage point. Try to be exact when lining up with the tanker.

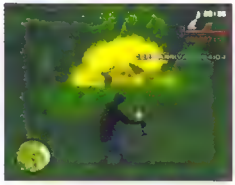
Now that you're on the road with the tanker, the gas station clerks give chase. One of the pursuers has a submachine gun, and you're a sitting duck if they catch up with you. Instead, hop out of the truck and wait for the pursuers to approach, then destroy their car with a spray of gunfire. No more worries!

Back inside the tanker, you face a new problem. If you accidentally disconnect the tanker from the truck cab—say, by making a tight turn or snagging the tanker on another object—you'll immediately fail the mission. Just like a real trucker, you need to stay on the road at all times and take turns extra-wide. Tilt the camera view up and back a bit to gain a better perspective of the road ahead. You finish the mission once you safely reach the way station indicated on the radar

Are You Going To San Fierro?



You unlock this by finishing Ceasar's race mission, "Farewell, My Love." The main goal is to torch The Truth's Mary Jane field before the cops raid the farm. Luckily, you have use of a Flamethrower. Problem is, it takes an awful lot of time to douse the plants with enough flames to ignite them; Molotov Cocktails tend to work more quickly. Again, a cheat code or two may be warranted here.



Burn all the plants with Molotovs and then use the Flamethrower to mop up any close-range plants left standing. And don't miss this small, stunted patch growing at the far end of the field—it doesn't have a greenhouse encasing, so it's easy to miss. Be sure to keep an eye on the radar— it'll show you what crops are left standing.

Once you mop up all the plants, you need to take down the enemy chopper. It's tricky to hit targets from far away with the Rocket Launcher, but you don't want to stand so close that the wreckage crushes you. Once you've wasted the chopper, carefully drive the Mothership van (which is incredibly easy to flip) to the radar blip. Welcome to San Fierro !

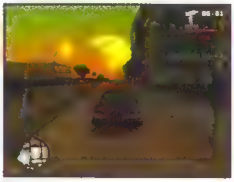
555 We Tip

You need to take out the valet when he enters the garage, but you can't have an active Wanted Level, or you'll blow the mission. Once inside the garage, shoot or beat up the valet to gain his outfit. Head back to stand with the other valets.

Your target, the District Attorney, drives a blue Merit. Keep your eyes peeled: If other valets are around, they'll tell you who he is when he arrives. Be sure to take the D.A.'s car before the other valets—yank them out if need be! Drive quickly to the garage down the street. Speed counts! At this point, you don't need to worry about damaging the D.A.'s car.

Hand-to-Hand Combat

Beefing up your Strength stat will increase the melee damage you inflict. Blocking and special attacks are available after you train in the local gyms. Martial arts and kick-boxing skills are also available later in the game, but these moves are mostly cosmetic enhancements and have little effect on gameplay.



Now that the drugs are planted and you've got a fresh coat of paint, you need to replace the car in the parking garage before the timer runs out. This is tough. The major problem here is that you can't damage the car at all. Time is still a huge factor, so drive quickly and safely back to the garage. Once you frame the D.A., you finish the mission.

Deconstruction

The construction workers put up a surprisingly good fight. Don't hesitate to blast them down, or they'll quickly overwhelm you with sheer numbers. Your goal is to blow up all six of the portables, which look like trailers. Two rockets will do the job (use a cheat), but the nearby crane and bulldozer will also suffice. For added fun, try targeting the explosive barrels to take out the portables, but don't run them over with the bulldozer. That would be a very bad thing.

If you're able to take out all six structures within the time limit, it's time to turn your attentions to the foreman. Ram his toilet into the ditch with the bulldozer, then back up to the hole with the cement mixer to seal him in with his own juices. Savor the sweet, stinky justice!

Jizzy

This is one long mission; thankfully, the pimpmobile can absorb tremendous punishment. Jizzy (what a name!) will hand out a bunch of menial chores then work his way up to bigger tasks. The Hashbury pimp doesn't pose much of a threat, but don't accidentally kill the girl he's with. Hop out and gun him down just to be safe. Another girl is being beaten to death halfway across town, and the freeway is the best way to get to her in time—she's just under the exit ramp. Run over the first goon, then splatter the second.

You have to take out both the limo and the looming security SUV to finish the mission. It's a good thing your Pimpmobile is so tough—use it to ram the SUV into submission, and then pull up alongside it and open up with your SMG as it recovers. A few drive-bys should take care of the SUV. The limo may prove tougher, but its top speed is pretty feeble. Stay on its tail and pull up alongside when possible in order to get a few shots in. Once you destroy both cars, you finish the mission (and earn a two-star Wanted Level).

T-Bone Mendez

This is a seriously annoying mission. Not only do you have to chase five motorcycle couriers all over town, but you have to manually hop off your bike to collect each package they drop. Worse, you're on a tight time limit. And you can forget about blowing up your victims with rockets—if you do, you'll destroy the package and fail the mission. To succeed, you need smarts and limitless patience

When the mission starts, don't tear off after the bikers. In fact, hop off your bike—two couriers will come screeching right past your starting point! Ready your SMG and stand close to the middle of the road. Rapidly target and kill the first courier before blasting the second. With any luck, you should kill both. Snatch both packages and hop back on your bike. The chase begins!

You only have a few minutes to kill the last three couriers, but unfortunately, there's no displayed time limit. Your best bet is to pick them off from on foot, but you need to get close; try to wait down the street and shoot them as they pass you by. It can be hard to predict their path, though, so you probably need to chase the last couriers. Tailgate them as closely as possible to maximize the damage. Be sure to nail them all before they escape into the night.

Mike Toreno

Talk about a stress-inducing mission! Immediately turn right out of Jizzy's parking lot; that gives you a head start to the building site, which will appear on your radar in a few moments. As you drive, try to minimize the damage to your car—it'll be a huge hassle to track down another car later. The location switches to the docks, and as you approach the entrance, the radar blip will disappear. That's your cue to make a quick right toward the airport, which is about to appear on your radar. It pays to stay one step ahead. What would you do without us, anyway?

At the airport, you need to head to the airstrip; use the Signal Meter to judge the proper direction. Take care not to drive into the water! Once you've determined the location of the van, close in slowly—the baddies will zip right by you, making your chase much harder. The key is to take out the bikers first, from on foot if possible, as they pass by. But don't blow up the van! Hop back into the car and take off after the fleeing van. Ram it repeatedly until a squad of heavily armed goons jumps out to attack. Gun them down in order to free Toreno.

It's not over yet! Once you reach the airport entrance, you earn a wicked three-star Wanted Level. Burn rubber for the nearest Pay 'N Spray (use the freeway because the garage is located directly off an upcoming exit), but remember to stay parked within its safe confines until your Wanted Level stops flashing. Or, for simplicity's sake, just activate the Lower Wanted Level cheat (see page 21). After the rigors you've endured so far, you've earned the right to cheat a little, right? Right.

Mountain Cloud Boys

The first wave of goons arrives by car—wipe them out quickly to avoid absorbing too much damage. As you approach the alley corner, two groups of enemies arrive on motorbikes. Blast them and carefully slink around the next corner. The courtyard ahead is packed with enemy shooters; be sure to take out the sniper located on the roof before he kills you or Woozie.

If you can make it to the car, Woozie takes over the shooting. Despite his blindness, he's a crack shot with a machine gun; drive in circles around the enemy vehicles so Woozie can pump them full of holes. It won't take long for the explosions to start, so be sure to reach a safe distance to avoid a fiery death.

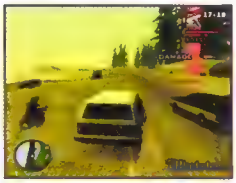
Ran Fa Li (Wu'n #2)

Once you've found the car (a lowly Manana sedan) at the airport, rival gang members will block your escape route. The primary goal is to avoid destroying the Manana, so your best bet is to take out the first wave of thugs on foot. For a clean kill, try targeting the van to wipe them out in the explosion. No fuss, no muss!

The situation isn't much better outside the airport: your path is blocked by several more enemy vans. Park the Manana at a safe distance and blast those poor fools. Be sure to wipe out the motorbike foes while on foot, or they'll trail you for miles. You'll probably find one more enemy truck outside the garage across town, but you should be able to dodge around it to enter the garage and finish the mission.

Luto

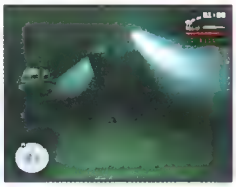
The main objective is to keep the Da Nang boys from realizing that Fa Li is not actually riding in your SUV. Your primary goal should be to avoid inflicting too much damage on the vehicle's doors; if they fall off, your cover will be blown. No good! Also, don't exit the car at any point in the mission, or you'll blow the ruse.



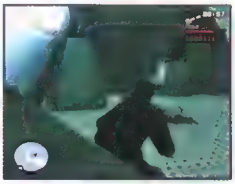
Whatever you do, don't tip the top-heavy Rancher. Keep hitting all the checkpoints, and make every effort to avoid off-road misadventures; you'll probably just flip the damn thing Don't worry about attacking your pursuers—stay ruthlessly focused on making it to the final checkpoint.

Amphibious Assault

This stealthy mission requires a boosted Lung Capacity; if your Lung Capacity is still at its default level, you'll need to practice swimming underwater to boost your stats. Once it's high enough, you can start this aquatic-based mission. Start by swimming through the first few underwater checkpoints (there's a handy Knife hidden on the sea bed) and then swim through the caverns to emerge in the bay.



If you swim on the surface, these patrol boats and spotlights will catch you and greet you with a flurry of bullets. Because you're swimming, you can't fight back, so it's important to stay underwater as much as possible. If you need air, gulp in a few breaths when you have a chance. Swim underneath the tanker and surface at the dock. Climb aboard and be ready for action. Stealthy kills (via the Knife or Silenced 9mm) are preferred but not necessary. Sneak onto the boat and kill the first few guards (who are only armed with knives).



Don't get caught in close-quarters combat with the sailors, or they'll cut you to ribbons with their superior knife-fighting abilities. Seriously, they're awesome. The lousy camera angles inside the boat don't help much, either. Blast them all and proceed to the radar blip. Plant the bug and flee the boat! As you swim away, remember to stay underwater to avoid arousing suspicion.

Small Arms

Besides being cheap and plentiful, pistols and submachine guns perform most of the grunt work in San Andreas. It's particularly worthwhile to master these smaller weapons early on because if you reach Hitman level, you can dual-wield them to inflict twice as much damage. Several exceptions of note: The larger SMG, Desert Eagle, and Silenced 9mm require two hands to use, and can't be dual-wielded. But these weapons are more powerful anyway.

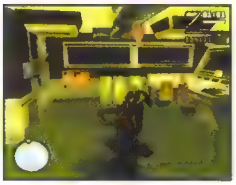
Shotguns

The vanilla Shotgun can inflict tremendous damage at close range, but its sluggish reload time often proves problematic in frantic shootouts. The double-barreled Sawed-Off Shotgun can rapidly fire two shells but suffers from an even longer reload; you can, with enough practice, dual-wield two Sawed-offs at once (though the reload time is agonizing). The Combat Shotgun simply rocks. It packs a speedy firing rate and devastating power into one svelte package. I'll take two.

The Da Nang Thang

There's no way to avoid the RPG hit, so don't bother trying. But do try to mop up as many of the Da Nang boys as you can before the chopper goes down. This reduces the number of enemy soldiers you fight later. When you go down, you lose everything but your Knife. Does C.J. have butterfingers or what? Board the boat and silently kill the first guard, then snag his gun.

Work your way up across the boat by hauling yourself onto the cargo crates. Keep watch for guards; they tend to hide in the nooks between crates. Once you've reached the lower deck, be prepared for a genuine shootout. Rapidly blast the Da Nang boys as you work your way closer to the refugees, but look out for the bomb-throwing thug—he's a tricky one. Once you free the prisoners, they tell you to head to the bridge.



Blast the guards and proceed to the bridge. The captain looks tough, but he foolishly tosses you a sword! Hack off his head before he guts you, then do a little dance in his blood. Once you've said goodbye to the captain, go and meet the refugees one last time before finishing the mission.

Ice Cold Killa

Head to Jizzy's club with your potent Silenced 9mm pistol. You have to infiltrate the club via the roof—look for the nearby scaffolding and take it up to the skylight. Once inside the club, you don't need to be stealthy. Just run right up to Jizzy and confront him. When he flees, wipe out his security detail (dual guns, as always, are useful here) and give chase. Jizzy is about to become hizztory.

Hop in the Stretch limo and tear off after Jizzy. Don't let him get away! You need Jizzy's phone intact, so inflict just enough damage to Jizzy's car that it bursts into flame. You could also yank him from the car, but it's unlikely you'll get close enough. Either way, once he's out of the car, riddle him full of holes and scoop up his phone. Sorry, Jizzy!

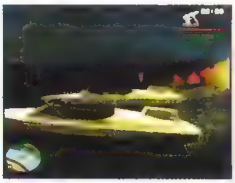
Pier 69

It's sniping time. You have to drop T-Bone's men before they waste all of Woozie's Triad fighters. Once you've cleared the rooftops, you're free to pursue T-Bone Mendez. Run across the street and note the nearby Well-Stacked Pizza shop; you can return here at any point in the mission to heal your wounds. Don't be afraid to take a quick break to recharge.

The pier is a straight-up shooting gallery, so keep your AK-47 ready for action. Open up on T-Bone's men, but don't mistakenly blast Woozie's Triad fighters—they're still waiting on the roof. Make your way down the pier, blasting any gangbanger you see. Eventually, you'll catch and kill Mendez.

Assault Rifles

There are two flavors of assault rifle: the AK-47 and the M4. The M4 is the more powerful of the pair, but the AK-47 is much easier to find. Both rifles can lock on to distant enemies with ease and boast solid power and exceptional accuracy to boot. Crouching provides a further boost to your accuracy. Assault rifles are the favored weapons for most shootouts in San Andreas.



Ryder's getting away! Swim quickly after him and head toward the two small boats. Ryder takes off in one boat, but that's fine—you have a gun, and he doesn't! Chase him through the bay and pull drive-by shooting tactics whenever you see an opening. After taking a pounding, Ryder's boat finally bursts into flames. You did it!

Toreno's Last Flight

It's time to take care of Toreno. Waste his goons on the helipad, and be sure to grab the Rocket Launcher stashed there. Take off in pursuit of Toreno's chopper; a motorbike is the ideal vehicle for this segment. Follow the chopper down the freeway until you see an opening, then launch a rocket. It takes some serious speed. One good strategy is to hold the Rocket Launcher when you board the bike, so you automatically switch back to it when you dismount. Every second counts—the chopper is hard to keep up with—but you eventually get close enough to land the killing blow. Ta-ta, Toreno!

Jay Ho-Boom-Boom

Your car is loaded with explosives, which you must plant inside the enemy's drug lab. Though the car isn't especially delicate, enemy gunfire will quickly chew it up. Your safest option is to take on all the factory guards while on foot, then drive the bomb car into the blood-drenched compound

Once you plant the bomb on the marker, you only have 40 seconds to escape the factory. Don't worry about shooting the guards—just run past them to reach the courtyard. Once the plant blows, you face some enemy reinforcements. Blow them all away before proceeding to the exit.

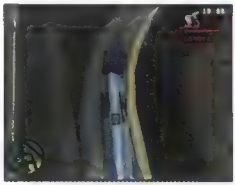
To escape the compound, you need to ramp the Voodoo over the main gate. Make sure there are no enemies left to take potshots at your Voodoo. Once the coast is clear, locate the collapsed roof that will serve as a ramp. Back up to allow yourself plenty of room, then speed the Voodoo up the ramp to launch over the main gate. Success!

Monster

This is a fairly straightforward checkpoint race, but there are several useful tactics worth noting. For starters, your primary goal should be to keep the monster truck upright; making wild handbrake turns will often flip the truck, thus dooming your efforts. Second, keep your speed at a reasonable level. If you can drive safely, taking off-road shortcuts will help trim precious seconds from your lap time. As long as you come in under six minutes and 30 seconds, you're golden.

Hijack

The hardest part is definitely hijacking the tanker truck; prepare to pack plenty of patience. You need to pull up to the driver's side of the truck, just next to the door, and hold the position for several seconds. That should be long enough for Caesar to hop over and disable the driver.



The second trick is driving the huge, lumbering tanker back to the garage. Navigating the truck on the narrow freeways is trick, so remember to turn as wide as possible in order to avoid disconnecting the cargo container. But don't fret—if you disconnect the cargo, you won't fail the mission, you'll just have to reconnect it by carefully backing into it. If the disconnected tanker becomes lodged in an awkward position, try gently nudging it with the truck cab.

Interdiction

Grab the Rocket Launcher, hop onto the Sanchez dirtbike, and head for the desert. Once you're on top of the plateau, the action starts. Your goal is to defend the larger helicopter from the swarms of smaller attack choppers. After you destroy the first two, three more will invade the scene, so you'll fight five in all.

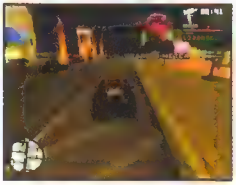
You don't have much time before the friendly helicopter is gunned down by enemy fire, so work fast. Fire a barrage of rockets at the enemy choppers (another Rocket Launcher will spawn nearby if you need to reload). It's tough to hit the choppers while they're in motion, so try to peg 'em when they hover.

Several of the choppers may try to land enemy agents on the ground; to do so, they need to stop moving, which should give you enough time to land a rocket hit. If you can destroy all five choppers in time, you'll still need to grab the dropped package from the desert. Take the nearby Bandito—it's ideal for traversing the plains.

Explosive Weapons

Grenades and Molotov Cocktails are fairly self-explanatory: Lob 'em and run. The fan-favorite Rocket Launcher is back, and he's brought a big brother: the Heat-Seeking Rocket Launcher. Both Rocket Launchers are ideal for annihilating cars and shooting down helicopters, but only the Heat-Seeking Rocket Launcher can home in on enemy targets.

Fender Hatchup

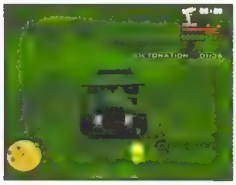


This is one delightfully twisted mission. The idea is to scare some important information out of a goon. The catch is, he's strapped to your hood. When the Scare-O-Meter fills up, he'll cough up the precious info. Make a left out of the parking lot and speed up and down the Strip; heading for the freeway will only earn you a three-star Wanted Level.

You'll get the best results by driving the wrong way down one-way streets. First, it's scary. Second, you slam into fewer cars. Driving behind other drivers is risky, because San Andreas drivers don't use turn signals, and rear-ending a car will kill your guest and end the mission. Hand brake turns are another sure way to scare him. There's no time limit, so just steadily work up his Scare-O-Meter until he starts talking.

Explosive Situation

This is a truly annoying mission. Your goal is to steal four sticks of dynamite from a local quarry. When you get to the quarry, ramp your car as far into the giant hole as possible—it saves a few precious seconds. You only have two minutes and a half minutes to snag the dynamite, so work fast!

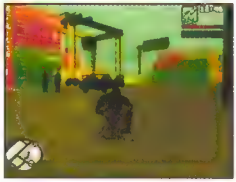


Kill any workers who interfere with your operation. Grab the nearby dump truck and smash through each of the armored dynamite boxes (represented as blips on the map), including the one carried by the forklift. Don't stop to pick each stick up; plow through all four, then hop out and grab the unprotected dynamite in one clean sweep.

Getting out of the quarry is the tough part. Use the Sanchez to work your way up and out of the quarry via dirt trails and rock chutes. On the way up, you need to hit each colored checkpoint; what's annoying is that you can't miss any. If you land back on the bottom of the quarry, you'll have to start from scratch. Prepare to fall often, however, because the rock chutes are perilously narrow. At one point, you'll need to cross over to a staircase (if you have problems, try using reverse gear) on the right before rejoining the rock chute.

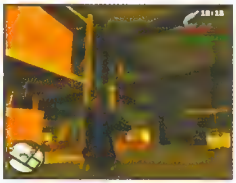
You find several guards as you work your way up. Stay on your bike—it's the perfect gun platform—and keep moving. You're almost out! But before you can escape, there's a band of security guards blocking the path to freedom. Pound the truck with gunfire from a distance. When it blows, breeze past the guards (or just waste them) and ramp over the fence to escape to the street and the courier. You can forget about leaving the way you came in—it's all locked up.

You've Had Your Chips



Screw the stealthy approach—just jump the plastics factory fence and go in, guns blazing. You face a legion of heavily armed opponents, including goons with potent Combat Shotguns. Take these enemies out first, and don't forget to whack the two hitmen that get out of the car behind you. And take care not to accidentally target the plastics machines during combat; you'll have time to destroy them after the firefight.

Proceed into the factory and grab any Combat Shotguns you see. These handy weapons are tremendously powerful, and you want to be on even footing with your foes. Take out any stragglers and then set your sights on the plastics machines. Be quick—reinforcements will arrive shortly! Destroy all the machines and exit the factory.



You're not out of the woods yet. The sniper sitting on top of the cargo crates has a deadly Combat Shotgun, so blow him away before tackling the remaining guards. This is a difficult shootout, and you could be forgiven for entering the Armor Cheat. Once the coast is clear, hop over the fence and head back to Woozie's casino. Victory!

LEARNING TO FLY

To continue in the single-player game, you need to successfully earn your pilot's license Though this challenge may seem almost impossible at first, you just need to master the flight controls. The plane is the first and trickiest test.

Takeoff

As with all the tests, you need to score at least a 70 percent to pass the Takeoff challenge. There are two things to note: First, you need a light touch on the left analog stick. Second, it's critically important to remember to retract the landing gear after taking off—if you don't, you'll barely get off the ground. Otherwise, this test is a cakewalk.

Land Plane

There's not much to mention here except that you need to deploy the plane's landing gear (press Raise/Lower Landing Gear) to touch down It's best to deploy the landing gear well before you're about to land, once you're mostly lined up with the runway; the landing gear actually drags you closer to the ground. Try to keep the weight slightly distributed toward the front of the plane so the nose points a bit toward the ground.

Circle Airstrip

It's important to precisely pass through the center of each corona; when in doubt, listen for the distinctive tone. The most important thing to remember in this challenge is to retract the landing gear just after liftoff; it's easy to forget, but that mistake will doom you. Otherwise, gently guide the plane through the exact center of each corona. It takes a few tries, but it shouldn't prove to be too difficult.

Circle Airstrip and Land

This challenge is a notch tougher. Not only do you need to remember to retract the landing gear upon takeoff (no, the game doesn't remind you), but you also have to pick the right time to deploy it in preparation for landing. Remember: Line up with the airstrip, begin to slow down, and deploy the landing gear to begin your descent.

Helicopter Takeoff

Now that you've mastered the basics of airplane flight, it's time to learn a thing or two about choppers. Luckily, this is a fairly easy test. The trickiest part is rotating toward the corona. And don't be too slow, or you'll fail the test.

Helicopter Landing

A bit harder, but still easy. The main idea is to press and hold Down in order to descend gradually. Once you're close to the ground, press and hold the Enter/Exit Vehicle button to complete the landing It doesn't have to be perfectly smooth, but it needs to be a fairly quick process. Next!

Destroy Targets

Okay, now the challenge kicks up another notch. Expect to replay this mission several times because you'll need to get a feel for the weapons system on the attack chopper. Forget about the machine guns: the rapid-fire rockets are your best bet for taking out the enemy vehicles You need to tilt the nose forward (toward the ground) a bit in order for the rockets to reach their targets. Wipe out the three stationary trucks quickly so you have plenty of time left to tackle the two moving targets at the end. Speed counts.

Loop-the-Loop

Definitely difficult, especially because the game camera doesn't give you a good view of the second corona. As soon as you enter the first corona, you need to press and hold Down very preciselyfor the full length of the loop. It takes a trial-and-error approach to perfectly hit the second corona, so keep trying.

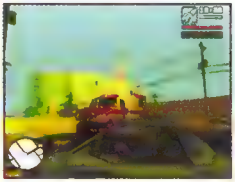
Barrel Roll

This one's less annoying than the Loop-the-Loop, but still frustrating. It's important to precisely hold Left. Any little bit of wobble will cause you to miss the second corona and fail the test. PC folks have a definite advantage here, what with the mouse-based flying controls

Parachute Onto Target

This test is just downright enjoyable. After jumping from the plane, press and hold Up to speed your descent. After deploying your parachute, press and hold Down to drift ahead (and slow your descent). The idea should be to position yourself directly above the target and then drop the last few feet directly onto it. Your accuracy counts: You need to get close to a bull's-eye if you want to graduate from flight school.

Intensive Care



There are three ambulances roving around Las Venturas, and your target is inside one of them. Drive around to each of the ambulances (indicated by the radar blips); when you find one, smash into it to determine whether it's a Mob ambulance or a legit one. When you find the right one, shoot and smash it at every opportunity.

Eventually, the Mob drivers hop out to engage you. Don't give them a chance—blast them down with an SMG or an assault rifle. Once they're toast, hop into the ambulance and drive it back to the meat factory.

The Meat Burnoon

Once you reach the abattoir, the scene turns into a real shooting gallery. The key is to stock up on armor and ammo beforehand. Remember the mobsters who packed Combat Shotguns in You've Had Your Chips? Hopefully, you grabbed one then; if not, enter a Weapon Cheat to score one. It's an invaluable tool in this mission. Once you waste the first few goons, Ken extinguishes the fires. Be sure to protect him during the mission...and whatever you do, don't enter the freezer!

Move through the slaughterhouse, blasting anything that moves. Several mobsters perch up high on boxes; crouch for accuracy and then blow them out of their shoes. As you head toward the back of the building, mobsters attack from point-blank range—particularly around the piles of cardboard boxes. Again, the Combat Shotgun's power and rapid firing rate makes it an ideal weapon for these close encounters. Once you've scoured every last enemy from the building, it's time to take off.

Freefall

After you sign the papers to partner with Wu Zi at the Four Dragons, you need to head back to Caligula's to help out Ken. Once you get to the airstrip (grab the armor inside the hanger), take off and head north to intercept the Ferrelli boys. You have to double back to tail the jet, but don't try to gain altitude too fast—you'll just stall out the engine. Gradually rise up to fly into the corona just behind the jet.

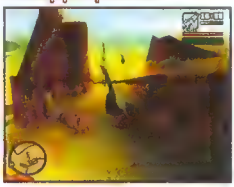
Inside the jet, the game switches to a first-person-shooting mode. Several waves of gangsters pop up from behind the seats—blast them with the machine gun before they unload too many bullets. It's easy. Once you've wasted all the thugs, the pilot rushes out, guns blazing. Blast him and take control of the jet. Once you've landed safely (don't forget to deploy the landing gear), your duty is done.

Madd Dogg

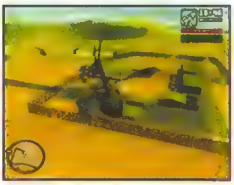
Madd Dogg wants to jump to his doom, but you have to cushion his fall with the nearby pickup truck. The camera position makes judging the distance tricky. The secret is that you start at the perfect distance—simply follow him left and right as he stumbles around. If you're lined up correctly, he'll jump straight into the truck. As soon as he's in the truck, hit the gas (or, oddly enough, he'll die almost instantly).

You need to carefully drive Madd Dogg to the hospital, but every collision brings him closer to death. He can only survive a handful of impacts, so yield to all nearby cars. If he survives the lengthy trip to the hospital, you'll finish the mission.

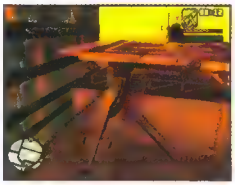
Misappropriation



Tricky but doable. When you reach the rendezvous, your target hops in a chopper and takes to the skies! Quickly blast any nearby targets and then hop in the second helicopter and give chase. Follow the target as he flies through the canyons.



Don't make the mistake of flying over this Army base pictured in the screen shot—stay waaaay outside the perimeter of its fence. If you fly over the base, you'll earn a devastating five-star Wanted Level and a heat-seeking rocket up your fanny. If this happens, enter the Lower Wanted Level cheat to buy yourself some breathing room. If you've got a rocket on your tail, however, you're in trouble.



Follow the chopper toward the skyscraper. When he makes a sharp left turn, rotate to the left roughly 90 degrees (press and hold Rudder Left) and prepare to engage him on the rooftop. The secret is to not let your blades collide with anything. Hastily drop your chopper down next to him, but you don't need to formally land—just line up and press and hold the Enter/Exit Vehicle button to bail out. Quickly blast the target before he scurries from the roof and scoop up his briefcase. Completion!

High Noon

It's time to whack Nice Guy Eddie, er, Officer Pulaski! You won't be able to blast him before he escapes in his car, but you have just enough time to take a few potshots at his getaway car. Try to take out a few tires, or you'll face a lengthy high-speed chase that you'll probably lose. Quickly jump into the Bandito (it's right next to where you started) and take off after Pulaski.

Don't let him get far ahead of you, because the game won't hesitate to fail you. Ignore his taunts (his comments concerning C.J.'s mother are awesome) and ram him repeatedly to slow him down. Pepper his car with SMG fire at every opportunity. If you're feeling daring, quickly hop out and blast him on foot. His car is well armored, but you'll eventually prevail.

When his car finally bursts into flames, Pulaski goes on the offensive. This is a surprisingly difficult shootout—you definitely want full armor and a potent weapon (such as a Combat Shotgun or AK-47). It's hard enough penetrating his ultra-resistant armor, but to make matters worse, Pulaski's hand cannon can kill you in just a few shots, and each shot from the Desert Eagle staggers you, delaying your return fire. Don't give him a chance! Keep up the punishment, and he'll eventually fall.

N.O.E.

Expect to see this screen quite a bit. This mission is absurdly hard—easily one of the hardest in the entire game—and requires a light touch, tremendous patience, and nerves of steel. Worse, you must beat this mission if you want to continue in the story line. Worst of all, there's no way to cheat: You need superior flying abilities, pure and simple. Grab a frosty one.

The mission is really just a simple package drop, but the frustrating part is that you have to literally fly under the radar. If you fly too high, the Visibility meter will quickly fill up. But resist the temptation to stare at the meter—just listen for the warning tone. If the Visibility meter maxes out, a squadron of fighter planes will shoot you out of the sky. Making matters worse is the fact that your plane is extremely fragile. Oh, and there's a harsh time limit, too!

When you take off (don't forget to retract the landing gear upon takeoff), veer left and pass through the canyons. This is a strategy you want to use throughout the flight ahead; always try to fly over canyons or waterways. Not only will they help shield you, but they're relatively flat and free of obstructions. Keep moving toward the radar blip and hug the ground at every opportunity. But don't get too close; if you clip your wings on an object—a tree, a pole, a wall—you're almost guaranteed to explode. Sometimes, you only take massive damage from the collision, which means reduced steering and power. Boo!

Even if your Visibility meter rises, you're not permanently screwed; if you can return to the proper altitude, the meter will slowly shrink. That means you have the freedom to briefly fly high if you need to avoid an obstacle. If you can reach the drop-off point and fly through the corona, you're better than most. It's in an area surrounded by dangerous hills and trees. Once you make the drop, it's time to head back to land at the airstrip.

This base just outside the airstrip has a No-Fly Zone, and you'll pay a steep penalty (i.e., a heat-seeking missile) if you ignore it. It's tempting to fly over the base to save time, but don't—the missile will cripple or destroy you. It's especially easy to accidentally fly over the base on the return trip. If you can successfully land the plane (don't forget to deploy the landing gear!) and complete the mission, you're a god, plain and simple.

Stowaway

This is another tricky airstrip mission, but luckily, it's not nearly as bad as the last one. You need to speed your motorbike onto the plane's cargo ramp before it takes off. Every millisecond counts here, so gun the motor immediately. Veer left a bit, past the crowd of enemy agents, and trail the plane.

The plane drops rolling barrels from the cargo ramp, so your best bet is to stick to the left side of the ramp. When the coast is clear, zip up and onto the ramp. You must be driving as fast as possible; don't hold back on the accelerator, hit a barrel, or even brake. If you do, you'll never catch the plane before it takes off.

On the plane, it's important not to fire any weapons—the plane is loaded with explosives, and one wrong shot will set them all off. Instead, use a potent melee weapon (preferably a sword); in a pinch, the Weapon Cheat #3 includes a chainsaw, which works nicely. Move up the hallway and duck into the side passages as the barrels roll by. Kill all the agents you find and move toward the cockpit.

The last agent wears a parachute; kill him and take it. Plant a satchel charge anywhere on the plane and then head back down the ramp and jump out of the plane. Ka-boooom! As you plummet to the earth, don't forget that pressing and holding Up will speed your descent. Don't forget to open your parachute!

Black Project

You must infiltrate the Area 69 (tee-hee) base and steal an experimental device for The Truth. Unfortunately, the base is heavily defended and difficult to breach. You definitely want full armor and health, plus some heavy weapons, before undertaking this mission.

Exotic Weapons

The Flamethrower, a clunky weapon in previous titles, can shoot flames a bit further in San Andreas. Still, it's a weapon best reserved for close-range carnage.

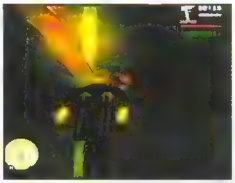
The Minigun is still outrageously devastating but a bit more rare. Look for it in Area 69.

The game outlines a stealthy plan of action to breach Area 69's blast doors, but it's awfully complicated, very time-consuming, and ultimately unnecessary. But that doesn't mean stealth can't be a component. Sneak in and take out any nearby enemies with the Silenced 9mm. Obviously, you want to avoid the roving spotlights; anticipate their movements to avoid unwelcome attention. You can also shoot them out, but once you blow two spotlights, the base goes into alert mode.

Eventually, you'll get spotted. It happens. From here on out, just sweep the entire base and blast any foes you encounter. The radar is particularly helpful here: red blips represent enemy soldiers, so adopt a search-and-destroy mentality. Don't forget about the snipers lurking in the towers. Once you've wiped the base clean, head for the new objective: a vent that allows entry into Area 69.

For some mysterious reason, you aren't able to Sprint inside the base. That's okay—there's nothing wrong with a nice, leisurely killing spree. Jog through the base and crush any soldiers who get in your way. Dual submachine guns or an M4 (carried by the guards) are ideal weapons here. Be sure to stop and grab the armor and health power-ups (plus the handy Minigun) that adorn the base.

When you come to the distinctive red hallway, look for the walkway just above it. Inside is a room with a huge map and a radar screen. If you deactivate the radar now, it'll save you tons of trouble during your daring escape. Consider it mandatory. Once you're finished, head back down the red hallway and toward the radar blip.



After you descend the huge staircase and wipe out all the guards, you can find the precious project. Surprise! It's a jetpack. Grab it and shoot straight up. Blast the soldiers as you ascend if you like. If you hadn't disabled the defense systems, you could expect to dodge heat-seeking rockets right about now, which is damn near impossible. Once you're outside, head for the radar blip to complete the level.

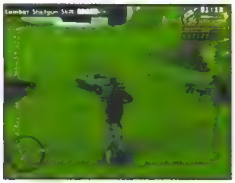
Green Goo

This is a fairly simple mission, but it's one that requires some dexterity. You need to intercept a freight train using the jetpack and then blow open several crates to reveal a vial of "green goo" for The Truth. The jetpack is easy to control, but it can be tricky to keep up with the speeding train.

Hose down the train with gunfire to wipe out the guards; PS2 and Xbox players should use the auto-aim feature when flying the jetpack, but remember that you can only hold one gun at a time while flying. If you take too long, the train will enter a tunnel; you'll have to run alongside it if you want to keep up. Luckily, the jetpack boosts your running speed, too. Once you've mopped up the guards, turn your attention to the cargo crates. Blow them up, grab the goo, and head back to meet The Truth.

Saint Mark's Bistro

To begin, you need to fly a jet out to Liberty City—yes, the same Liberty City from Grand Theft Auto III. Flying the jet across the ocean takes a little time, but compared to some of your more strenuous flying missions, it's cake. But before you leave San Andreas, be sure to bring along some potent firepower; a Combat Shotgun and armor should be considered mandatory. Use the cheat codes if you have to.



Inside Saint Mark's, it's every man for himself. You begin the shootout in a surprisingly vulnerable location; blow away the first few Mafia goons (again, the Combat Shotgun's power and speed make it an unrivaled weapon) before heading downstairs. Work your way downstairs and through the kitchen, blasting the Forelli boys at every opportunity. Once you've wasted all the thugs, you just need to successfully land the jet back in San Andreas to complete the mission.

A Home in the Hills

Despite brutal competition, this is probably the single most obnoxious story line mission in all of San Andreas. It requires huge quantities of time and patience, plus sharp shooting and godly driving skills. Beforehand, load up on armor, guns (preferably a Combat Shotgun and an AK-47), and ammo. You'll need them!

It starts out promisingly enough as you and your Triad buddies parachute onto Big Poppa's roof. Though it's preferable to hit the rooftop, it's not critical. Once you're on the roof, be ready for a brutal shootout. Mow down the legions of enemy gangbangers with your AK-47 or M4. The Combat Shotgun isn't a great choice here due to its frequent need for reloading. The assault rifles can wipe out multiple enemies per clip, which is important given the sheer number of enemies you face. If you're taking too many hits, try Crouching to lower your profile and boost your accuracy.

PS2 and Xbox players need to master rapidly switching targets if they want to stand a chance in this rooftop shootout. Try to squash the gangbangers as they climb, before they even set foot on the roof. Your Triad buddies provide some cover fire, but they're lousy shots. Once you mop up the rooftop (look out for enemy stragglers), grab the armor, which is next to the air conditioning unit. Head down the ramp and into the building. Prepare for more carnage inside.

This is a good time to switch to the Combat Shotgun. Slowly walk down the hallways and mercilessly blast any gangbanger foolish enough to take a shot at you. Look for enemies lurking in each of the rooms; don't blindly walk by doorways unless you want to take massive damage. If you're having a hard time, try switching to the AK-47 or M4—it's more effective for picking off foes at the far end of the hallway. And search the left-hand rooms for valuable items.

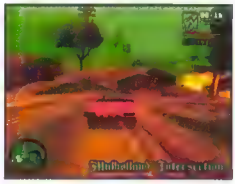
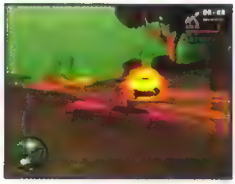
Chase Big Poppa through the house and blast any enemy thugs you find (they tend to pop out of darkened chambers and blind corners, so be ready for action at all times). An AK-47 or M4 assault rifle helps out here, as does the health pickup located in the kitchen. After much shooting, you chase Big Poppa right out of the mansion and trigger a high-speed chase.

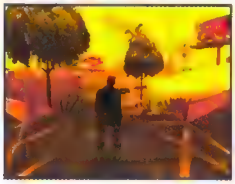


Here's where things get annoying. You've already invested a solid 15 minutes so far, but to finish this mission, you need to catch and kill Big Poppa. The problem is, he's driving a speedy, nimble sportscar; your Windsor is plenty fast, but it's also prone to flipping over and spinning out. Worse, if you fall more than a few seconds behind Big Poppa, you'll instantly fail the mission. Should you fail the mission, you need to redo the lengthy parachute and mansion shootout segment. Whatever you do, don't fail!



Tear out of the circular driveway and hang a right. At the upcoming intersection, Big Poppa chooses either a right and left turn. Whichever way he goes, follow him quickly but safely—you don't want to blow it now! Be particularly careful on the steep, spiraling hills nearby, and don't try any offroading tactics. Once you catch up with him, take out your pent-up rage on his vehicle, smashing and shooting it at every opportunity. Blow him away without mercy!

I Left My Heart (And A Few Other Organs) In San Andreas



You now have the skills you need to make a triumphant return to Los Santos. Once you clean out your hometown one last time, you'll cement your legacy as the baddest mofo to ever grace the Grand Theft Auto series. Congrats, killer!

GAMEPRO EDITORS' CHOICE

Debating which version of Grand Theft Auto: San Andreas you should pick up? The answer is more complicated than you might think.

If you're on a budget, the PS2 version of San Andreas still offers plenty of thrills, even if the graphics are a bit grainy.

Pimping on the PS2

The PlayStation 2 version of San Andreas looks decent, especially when you consider the PS2's so-so graphics abilities. But it suffers from a somewhat gritty, grainy look. To maximize the visual clarity, play in the slick 16:9 widescreen mode and use S-Video or component RGB video cables. Another visual bummer in the PS2 version is so-called draw-in, which makes details like buildings and trees pop into view as you approach them. In the end, there's no doubt that the PS2 version of San Andreas is the ugly duckling of the group, but unless you're a serious graphics connoisseur, you probably won't mind much.

The biggest perk of the PS2 version, of course, is that it's been out since October 2004. The retail price is still $49.99, but used copies are widely available for as little as $30. You won't find prices like that for the Xbox or PC versions for, well, quite some time. But beyond price, the PS2 players will notice a few other perks, most notably the cozy control scheme that balances functionality and comfort.

Verdict: third degree

This is fundamentally the same game that you'll find on the Xbox or PC, and it's widely available at affordable prices; if you already have this version, there's no urgent need to reinvest in the prettier Xbox and PC versions, unless you're a stickler for gorgeous graphics or custom soundtracks.

PC without being P.C.

The PC version of San Andreas definitely has the capacity to be the most visually stunning of the three versions—if you have a cutting-edge video card and tons of RAM. You'll find a wide variety of graphics options on the PC. Upping the screen resolution and antialiasing settings will add tremendous visual clarity, while boosting the Draw Distance meter enables you to practically banish distracting draw-in and pop-up altogether. That's an enormous advantage. Another nice touch is that you can play your favorite MP3s through a custom radio station. And it would be foolish to overlook the future promise of user-created modifications and upgrades (such as Multi Theft Auto, an awesome free multiplayer add-on for GTAIII and Vice City).

There's no question that the PC version of San Andreas has more options and flexibility than any other available version. But San Andreas was designed as a console game, and it's always going to be a console game. So it's no big surprise that the PC controls are, well, demanding. Casual players are likely to be intimidated by the more elaborate control scheme. PC pros are sure to love the game's uber-precise mouse aiming, but when it comes to vehicle control, the mouse and keyboard just aren't ideal. Sure, you could always use a USB game pad, but that means you'll have to shell out another $20.

Verdict: second degree

In the end, San Andreas for the PC has the most to offer. But considering the steep system specs and the key binding headaches, casual players may find that it's more trouble than it's worth. If you're a PC pro, however, this is definitely the version to get.

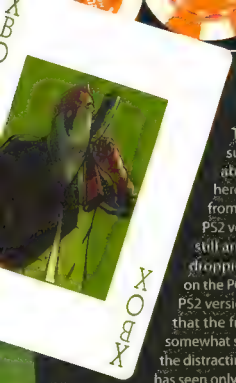
Download the unofficial multiplayer add-on for the PC version of Grand Theft Auto III and Vice City.

Whether you're on the PS2, PC, or Xbox, playing in widescreen mode is definitely advised. Look at those graphics!



Xbox Exclusives

Thanks to the Xbox's superior rendering abilities, the graphics here are a big step up from those found in the PS2 version, even if they still aren't nearly as jaw-dropping as those found on the PC. Compared to the PS2 version, you'll also find that the frame rate here is somewhat smoother, though the distracting draw-in effect has seen only a modest improvement. Load times don't seem to be any faster on the Xbox, and the 16:9 widescreen display mode doesn't look as crisp and clean as it probably should. These are minor quibbles, but they're worth mentioning.

As in the PC version, Xbox players are able to rip any audio CD onto the console's hard drive and then play those tracks through a custom San Andreas radio station. That's a trick that the PS2 version can't match. The controls are another key strength; the precise, comfy Xbox Controller S is ideal for this game. You won't have to fumble with an elaborate keyboard-and-mouse system or confusing key binding systems here, either—just plug in your controller, and you're set. Of course, you won't be able to pop pinpoint, precise headshots in a heartbeat (like you can on the PC), but the simplicity and comfort are worthy tradeoffs.

Verdict: Must-Rent

The Xbox version is the most balanced version, combing the best qualities of the PC and PS2 games into one well-rounded offering. It features some noticeable visual enhancements over its PS2 predecessor and boasts a friendly control scheme to boot. It's not perfect, and it's still somewhat disappointing that Rockstar apparently didn't bother to add any new weapons or missions. But in the end, Xbox players are bound to be very, very happy.

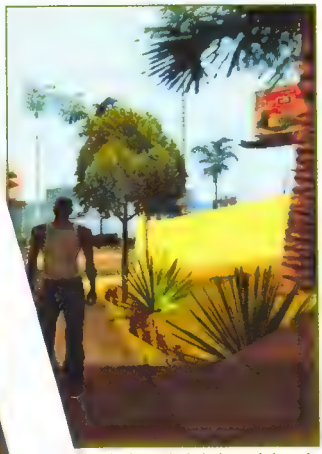
The Xbox version combines the strengths of the PC and PS2 versions into one harmonious, well-rounded package. Unless you're a PC god, this is the Theft to get.

San Andreas At a Glance

The PlayStation 2 version looks good but is marred by grittiness and some aggressive draw-in. Note that there's no palm tree on the right-hand side of the screen: The designers likely cut it to conserve the meager PS2 resources.



The Xbox version looks sharp and crisp, and is a big step up from the PS2 version. Note the palm trees in the distance: They're more defined and distinct. This one's definitely a looker.

Now we're talking. This image's razor-sharp textures are clean, and draw-in is practically nonexistent—but there's still plenty of room for improvement. Enabling antialiasing will shoot these visuals through the stratosphere. Commence drooling.

The Ultimate Guide To HALO 2

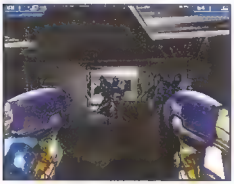
Halo 2 is not an easy game. But with this strategy guide in hand, you'll blow through the single-player game and dominate Xbox Live's multiplayer mayhem. Don't say we never did anything for you.

By Vicious Sid

Single-Player Campaign

The insightful teachings found in this short and sweet walkthrough will arm you with the skills to take down the toughest enemies in both the single-player and Cooperative modes.

Cairo Station
"Authorized Personnel Only"

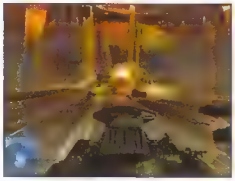


The first level in Halo 2 is fairly easy, but the situation deteriorates quickly once you exit the station. You'll first encounter these jetpack-wearing Elite in the cold blackness outside the Cairo Station. Hammer them with steady fire from dual Plasma Rifles or be stealthy using the Battle Rifle. Don't forget to take cover as these guys carry dual Plasma Rifles and can inflict incredible damage before they go down. As always, be sure to give your shield plenty of time to recharge before you rush into action.

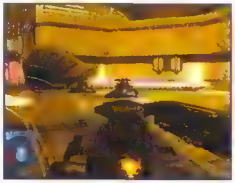
In the loading dock area, you face buzzing Drones for the first time. They love to zip around maniacally so don't waste your ammo by spraying wildly. Wait until a Drone lands on the wall, then peg it with the Battle Rifle or Plasma Rifle. Splat! Now quickly crush the others under your armored boot and move on. There's no rest for the wicked. Remember to take great care with the jetpack Elites ahead—they pack a serious wallop.

At the bottom of the elevator, you'll encounter a dangerous gang of Elites and Grunts who are guarding the bomb. If you have the Battle Rifle and the Plasma Rifle, you can fight them from behind from down the hallway, where cover is plentiful. The Needler actually works wonders here (there's few place for them to hide). Flooding the chamber with grenades is also not a bad plan.

Metropolis
"Ladies Like Armor Plating"



You're fairly safe inside the Scorpion tank, but huge Phantoms and smaller Banshees are pestering you. The large Phantoms are essentially indestructible, but when they stray close, you might be able to blow out a few of the energy turrets. Take that, Covenant fiends!



Swat the attacking Banshees out of the sky from long range. You might have to lead them as they move by aiming a microsecond ahead of them. Wraiths are waiting for you at the tunnel entrance. The Scorpion is definitely superior to the Wraith—at least, when you're driving. Three shots will usually do the job, but don't forget to spray that machine gun fire around.

Look down the prisms to see the Ghosts coming toward you. You can see the white-colored energy signature of their engines. Blast the Ghosts and Banshees from long range. The Wraiths have more armor, but a few blasts from the cannon will gut 'em. Keep the machine gun turret going at all times—you have unlimited ammo. It's especially good against Covenant troops, who are quite keen on climbing aboard your death-dealing Scorpion. If that should happen, tap X and kill the fool in face-to-face combat before climbing back in the saddle.

Artful Artillery

Halo 2's weapons have enjoyed significant upgrades and changes, especially with the introduction of the Multiplayer Map Pack. Here is how to get the biggest bang for your buck in both single- and multiplayer modes.

BATTLE RIFLE

It's an acquired taste but ultimately an essential weapon. Basically, the Battle Rifle is a less overpowering version of the Pistol from the first Halo. Use it just like you used the Pistol in the first Halo: Stay at medium range, circle your target, and relentlessly blast the noggin. Don't bother zooming unless you're sniping at distant targets.

SMG

This snub-nosed submachine gun has a high rate of fire, but it's the least accurate firearm in the game—be prepared to fight against the recoil. Dual-wielding two SMGs lets you vomit a hailstorm of bullets, but the recoil will gravely affect your long-distance accuracy.

MAGNUM

The Magnum fills a completely different role than the Pistol in the original Halo, a fact many players have difficultly grasping. Rather than being an assault-class weapon, it's strictly designed to provide support in a dual gun combo. Used properly, the Magnum is a highly celebrated death-dealer.

SNIPER RIFLE

In many multiplayer matches, the Sniper Rifle is frankly just too much. Each bullet inflicts massive damage on the enemy; one head shot or two body shots will slaughter nearly anything. Firing from the hip is somewhat tricky, though certainly not impossible. Thanks to the insanely powerful zoom scope and the liberal amount of ammo, this is the camper's favorite toy. Psst...Bungie. Please tone down this gun!

ROCKET LAUNCHER

Halo 2's potent Rocket Launcher returns with a zippier firing rate and a vehicle-seeking mode (press and hold the R Trigger). When fighting infantry, aim for their feet and let the splash damage do the work—don't try to hit them dead-on, or you'll just waste precious ammunition. Melee attacks with the Rocket Launcher inflict extra damage.

SHOTGUN

The Shotgun destroys. What it lacks in range and firing rate it makes up for with brute force and massive ammo capacity. Forget firing from medium or long range. Hold your fire until you get up close; a point-blank blast will crush a fully armored opponent with one blow. And don't worry—this thing can carry 12 shots between reloads. Da-amn!

PLASMA RIFLE

One Plasma Rifle is not a very effective weapon, but pairing it with an SMG or a pixel-precise Magnum yields impressive results. The secret is to fire in short, controlled bursts; if the Plasma Rifle completely overheats, you'll be left momentarily defenseless.

BRUTE PLASMA RIFLE

A neat variation on the Plasma Rifle, the red-toned Brute version has a zippier firing rate, which means it inflicts damage faster than its lower-voltage little brother. The tactics are the same, but mind the Brute version's rapid overheating.

PLASMA PISTOL

The Plasma Pistol has a reduced role in Halo 2. On its own merits, it's a totally unsuitable weapon. In dual-wield combos, you should leverage the overcharged shot (hold the Fire button), which will melt through any shield with one hit, or swap it out for the Magnum role.

Inside the tunnel, blast any place where you think enemies might be lurking from afar. Later, a Warthog with support troops joins you there Between the enemy Ghosts, your rickety Tank, and the fresh Warthog, you've got plenty of options if you want to swap vehicles. Which one's the best choice? Opinions vary, but you might want to consider driving the Warthog over the barrier so that you can use the chain gun on the upcoming horde of chaos that awaits you.

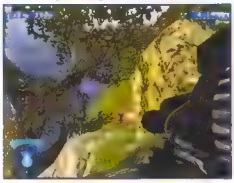
"Field Expedient"

Let the bug hunt begin. When you're on the rooftop intercepting the huge Scarab walker, you can jump on it right away by dashing to the left and dropping down off the small rooftop bridge. Otherwise, you'll have to run to the right and trade gunfire in order to catch up with the Scarab. Scoop up the Rocket Launcher and ammo while blasting the dudes on the Scarab.

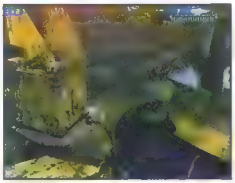
Try to save a few Rocket Launcher shots—they'll come in handy when you hop onto the Scarab itself. Wipe out the Scarab crew by flooding the cabin with grenades. Victory!

Delta Halo

"Helljumpers"



You start out with an SMG and a Rocket Launcher. You can use the Rocket Launcher to home in on each of the three energy turrets—when the aiming reticle turns red, hold the Fire button to lock-on; release Fire to unleash the rocket. Up ahead, the huge throng of Elites and Jackals represent a fierce fight. Find dual weapons as quickly as you can.



Keep an eye peeled for snipers hiding amongst the cliffs. If possible, pick up a Beam Rifle and a Covenant Carbine or Battle Rifle. When the Phantoms arrive, it will help to stay inside the temple and snipe the ship turrets to hold down the suppressing fire. The Warthog section is a breeze, but it might help if you shoot and the A.I. buddy (or your teammate in Cooperative mode) drives.

Sacred Icon

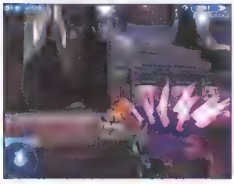
"Buyer's Remorse"

As the Arbiter, your first action should be to fry that huge Sentinel in order to open the portal, a theme you'll come back to time and time again. Either zap its shields using an energy weapon or get under the shields and take out the main body with a rocket. Sentinels aren't as tough as they look (unless you're inside a vehicle…).

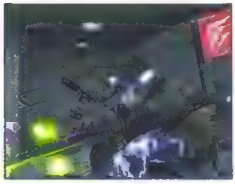
The Flood zombies are a real problem and require slightly different tactics. Because they don't have energy shields—at least, not usually—they're most vulnerable to Human weapons. Dual SMGs are highly effective, as is the ever-deadly Shotgun. Dual Magnums are the best of all, but you'll quickly run out of ammo. Aim for the head (or whatever little cluster of nerves functions as such) whenever possible.

You might have to fight while running backward, however, as the Flood are fast and furious in melee combat. Use an SMG or Shotgun to quickly crush the small Flood parasites you'll face. If you're running low on ammo, try snagging a Sentinel Beam from a destroyed Sentinel robot. The Beam is useful for fighting the Flood and conserving ammo, but it will drain quickly.

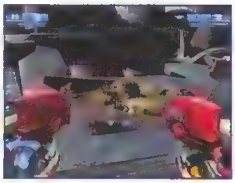
Gravemind "Inside Job"



Beware the Brute guards—their berserker fits can inflict massive damage. If you encounter a berserker Brute, run backward while blasting away and aim a bit lower than normal. Touch-and-go tactics will definitely serve you well here—draw tough enemies into little back-alley murders and certainly don't try to fight everyone at once.



You can't tell from a distance, but the apelike Brutes usually wear helmets If you use a rifle or a sniper weapon, aim for the head. The first shot knocks off the helmet; the second shot brutalizes the Brute. The Brute Shot grenade launcher is another good choice, as are Dual Needlers.



After freeing your Marine buddies, you run smack into a civil war among Elites, Jackals, Grunts, and Brutes. This is one of the longest runs of straight-out combat in the game. The best strategy is to scramble through this gun battle, fighting only when you must. Ruthless players, of course, won't feel satisfied until they crush every creature in sight. The Beam Rifle is quite effective for striking from afar, while close-quarters encounters demand the Fuel Rod Cannon or Energy Sword Keep moving.

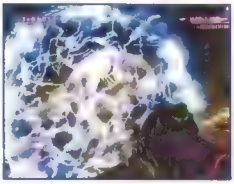
The Great Journey "Delusions And Grandeur"

On your way to a confrontation with Tarturus, you'll encounter a huge cluster of Brute squads outside the chamber. As soon as they enter the room, drop down to the lower level. You can see them through the clear floor, but they can see you, too. Take the Brutes down one at a time by fighting from below. The Brute Shot is effective here as the wounded Brutes tend to go berserk and attack in hand-to-hand, making them perfect fodder for the Brute Shot's devastating melee attack

The Battle With Tarturus

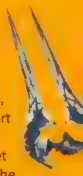
When you come across Tarturus, the Oracle explains the galaxy-cleansing purpose of Halo. Tarturus doesn't want to hear it, however, and continues his suicidal quest to initiate the Great Journey. Immediately toss grenades to clear out Tarturus's gang. You'll get some backup in the form of Elite warriors and Sgt. Johnson. You'll need all the help you can get as Tarturus wears a powerful energy shield and is almost invincible. Almost.

Sgt. Johnson is the key. You must lure Tarturus into open areas so that Sgt. Johnson can shoot him three times. After the third hit, Tarturus's shield briefly goes down and you can inflict some quick damage; the Energy Sword and Shotgun are beautiful for these rare moments. Use the central energy lift to zoom up to the next level and avoid Tarturus's attacks. The hammer blow in particular is lethal.



Stay on the move. If you can keep Tarturus at a distance but also in sight, then you can squeeze off a few rounds when his shield is down. After you get in enough big hits, Tarturus buys the farm. Huzzah! You've saved the universe! But it seems that the battle is just beginning....

ENERGY SWORD



One of the most addictive weapons in the whole game, the Energy Sword can, in some ways, be thought of as the "heart and soul" of Halo 2. The secret is to lock on (target an enemy and wait for the reticle to turn red) before pressing the Attack trigger. Master Chief will launch at the target and impale him for a one-hit kill.

BEAM RIFLE

The Beam Rifle is the Covenant version of the Sniper Rifle. It has a powerful magnifying scope and can fire two rapid energy blasts before overheating (a key advantage it has over the pokier Sniper Rifle). The particle trails give away the shooter's position, but this is another unbalanced, overpowering gun in multiplayer combat.

COVENANT CARBINE

The Carbine is an effective medium-range weapon and can even put up a good fight in long-range battles. Shot for shot, it's a bit better at long-distance combat than the Battle Rifle. Like the Battle Rifle, it has a lower-power scope.

SENTINEL BEAM

In the single-player game, you earn these by swatting down those pesky Sentinels. Both the red and blue beams make quick work of the Flood, which helps you save precious ammo for tougher foes. In multiplayer matches, the Sentinel Beam is, at best, a so-so weapon.

BRUTE SHOT

The latest Auto Update (as well as the retail Multiplayer Map Pack) upgraded the damage of the once-lousy Brute Shot. It can now kill in just two or three shots. Its melee swipe is the second most damaging melee attack in the whole game.

NEEDLER

Many Halo fans frequently claim that the Needler in Halo 2 is an improvement over its predecessor from the first game. This is wrong. Halo 2's Needler is serviceable in the single-player game, but it's a total waste of time in serious multiplayer matches. If you're on Xbox Live, forget about the Needler.

FUEL ROD CANNON

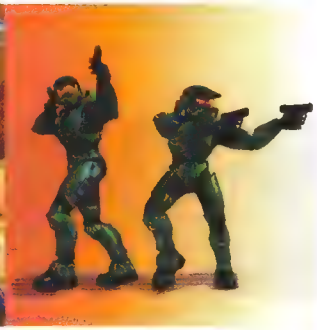
This is a nifty weapon that's only available in the single-player campaign. It's much like the human Rocket Launcher, but lacks a bit in terms of accuracy. If you find one, use it religiously.

FRAG GRENADES

Fragmentation grenades are great for all-around killing and can sometimes kill a foe with one blast. Want to hit far-off enemies? Just tilt up your view slightly before throwing; with practice, you'll become quite accurate. Also, try bouncing them off walls to clear foes hiding around blind corners (great on Foundation).

PLASMA GRENADES

Plasma grenades can stick to enemies and vehicles, which always provides a one-hit kill. The Auto Update and Multiplayer Map Pack also improves grenades by shortening the fuse and increasing damage, particularly for the Plasma Grenades.



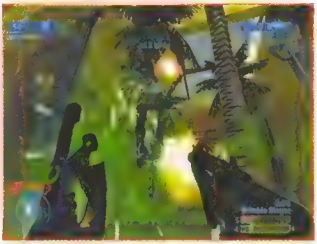
The Ultimate Guide To HALO 2 MULTIPLAYER

Got the Energy Sword blues? Taken one too many point-blank Shotgun blasts to the gut? Then belly up to the bar, soldier, and rock on with these bitchin' Halo 2 multiplayer tips. Whether you play split-screen with your buddies or on Xbox Live with the teeming masses, these strategies will help you reign with an iron fist.

Bruise Control

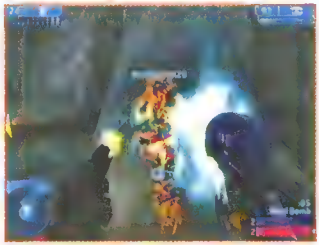
Feel free to play around with analog stick sensitivity, though the default setting is perfect for most players. We find that a sensitivity setting of 5 (or 6, tops) will work great for medium-skill players. Also, experiment with inverting your analog stick movements.

Jumping the Gun



Halo 2's huge, floaty space jumps often leave you in a compromising midair position. Because it's easy for enemy snipers to predict your arc and cap you at the apex, it's best to jump as infrequently as possible. But don't forget—midair melee attacks now kill in one hit

Know Thy Circle-Strafe



Two words: absolutely critical. The idea is to move around your target while shooting at him. This keeps him pinned in the center of your destructive perimeter while making you harder to hit. Does it work? Yes. Yes, it does.

The Art of Concealment

When crouch walking (hold L3), you can often creep right past foes because you won't show up on the motion tracker. Crouch jumping is another useful tactic; when you press Crouch at the apex of your jump, it gives you a slight boost. The multiplayer levels are riddled with small nooks and secret sniping perches specifically designed for crouch-jumping.

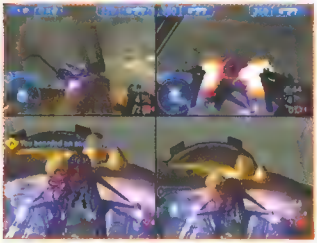
Halo: Reloaded

Keeping your weapon fully loaded should be a constant consideration. Always be aware of your weapon's ammo level, and if you see a moment to reload, take it, even if you're only adding a few extra shots. You might not get another chance later

Grand Theft Halo



It's entirely possible to hijack an enemy's vehicle; hold X when near an enemy vehicle. Sneaky players will bait you into hijacking their vehicle and then immediately bail out as you board the craft. This opens you up to a devastating counterattack from your intended prey, who can now blast you while you struggle to gain control of the vehicle. Be aware of that trick when hijacking Banshee aircraft or Scorpion tanks.

Smackdown

With the Auto Update and the Multiplayer Map Pack, melee attacks now inflict far more damage. The old trick still works: If you think your opponent is unaware of your presence, trail him until he stops moving; then sneak up from behind and smack him to score a one-hit-kill. You can also kill in one hit with a midair melee attack

Dual-Wield Dangers

Just because you can hold two guns doesn't mean you should hold two guns. Many players dual wield like it's a religion, forgetting the power of Plasma and Frag grenades (which are far more powerful than before) Holding just one gun also gives you the power to litter the ground with grenades just before a superior enemy overwhelms you.

Crack Some Skulls

This point cannot be stressed enough: Land as many heads shots as possible. Always. If you can't reliably hit enemy heads, then practice longer and harder. This is especially true with the Sniper Rifle, Magnum, Battle Rifle, and Covenant Carbine, but it applies to other guns as well.

CONNECTION BLUES

Can't connect to Xbox Live? You may need to restart your modem. Unplug your cable or DSL modem from the wall socket, wait a minute, and then reconnect the power. Microsoft says that "power cycling" solves about half of Xbox Live connection problems.

The Four Best Dual-Wield Combos in Halo 2

These lethal combos will make short work of any foe you encounter in Halo 2's multiplayer modes, especially at close and medium range.

SMG and Plasma Pistol

Simply devastating. When fully charged, the Plasma Pistol will completely strip your opponent's shields. Better yet, the overcharge shot will home in on an enemy's position. Once the brunt of the Plasma damage is dealt, a quick spray from the SMG will usually flatten your foe. This combo is effective at close range, but superior in medium-range combat.

SMG and Magnum

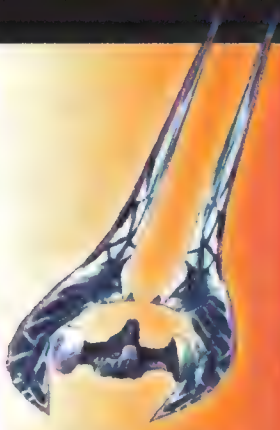
Compared to the first Halo's Pistol, the Magnum inflicts less damage and lacks the zoom scope. Luckily, it still rocks for dealing out high-damage head shots. The strategy here differs from that of the Plasma Pistol/SMG combo. If you're right-handed, you'll have better luck if you hold the Magnum in your dominant hand (right) and the SMG in the weaker hand. A must-have for close-quarter brawls.

SMG and Plasma Rifle

This combo is so powerful that Bungie had to slightly reduce its damage in the Multiplayer Map Pack. Luckily, this combo still kicks ass, and it's one of the most reliable you'll find. It's devastating in close-quarters combat, but it holds up nicely at medium range, too.

Plasma Rifle and Magnum

Here's one of the most balanced combos in the game. The Plasma Rifle melts shields quickly, so start with a quick burst to weaken your target's shield. Then open up with both guns (remember to land head shots with the über-precise Magnum) to finish the job. Believe it or not, this is a key combo for medium-range combat.



Live by the Sword...

If you find the Energy Sword, quickly switch to a nonthreatening weapon, such as the SMG. If you go incognito, you'll keep others from reaping the benefits of the Sword—they simply won't be able to find it. And with your Sword safely sheathed, enemies won't take you as a threat—a mistake they'll suddenly realize when your Energy Sword is buried deep inside their innards. Just don't dual wield—you'll never be able to draw the Sword in time.

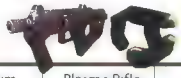
...Die by the Sword

When fighting no-talent Energy Sword hacks, win by exploiting your biggest asset—brains. Sword hacks love to wait in corners (making them invisible to motion sensors) in order to spear opponents as they walk by. Cheap! Try waiting patiently in a corner of your own; the Sword-wielder is sure to get restless and come looking for you, making him grenade or Shotgun fodder.

THE MULTIPLAYER WEAPON STRATEGY COMPENDIUM VERSION 1.2

Gunplay in Halo 2's multiplayer mode revolves around the target's range. If you've ever wondered which weapon is best at each distance, listen up.

CLOSE RANGE



5 4 3 2 1 0

	Magnum	Plasma Rifle	SMG	Needler	Plasma Pistol
Magnum	3	4	5	1	3
Plasma Rifle	4	4	4	1	4
SMG	4	4	4	4	4
Needler	1	1	2	1	1
Plasma Pistol	3	2	4	1	2

SUMMARY

At close range, the newly enhanced melee attacks (introduced in the Auto Update and the Map Pack) represent a huge threat. Effective close-quarters combos now must be able to kill and kill quickly, making the SMG/Plasma Rifle combo the undisputed close-quarters champion. The SMG/Magnum combo is still plenty powerful, even with the Magnum's reduced head shot damage. The SMG/Plasma Pistol configuration also devastates, but it represents a higher risk due to its slow recharge and the boosted melee blows. And don't expect any changes to the Needler—it still sucks.

MEDIUM RANGE

	Magnum	Plasma Rifle	SMG	Needler	Plasma Pistol
Magnum	4	4	4	1	4
Plasma Rifle	4	4	4	1	4
SMG	4	4	4	1	4
Needler	1	1	2	1	1
Plasma Pistol	4	2	5	1	2

SUMMARY

This is a prime range for grenades, which are now more powerful than ever. The reliable SMG-based combos (SMG/Magnum, SMG/Plasma Rifle, and especially the SMG/Plasma Pistol) dominate at this range. Dual Plasma Rifles are also excellent, as are Dual Magnums (though Magnum head shots are now trickier). Dual SMGs are fine in a pinch but can't compete with the nastier combos. Don't overlook the Plasma Pistol/Magnum combo, either: After you've wiped the shields, one Magnum head shot is all it takes to score a kill. The Needler, as usual, sucks

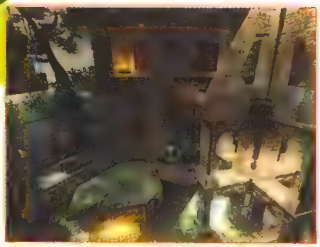
HEAVY WEAPONS

	Close Range	Medium Range	Long Range
Shotgun	5	2	1
Energy Sword	5	4	4
Brute Shot	4	4	4
Sentinel Beam	4	4	2
Rocket Launcher	4	5	4
Battle Rifle	2	5	4
Covenant Carbine	4	4	4
Sniper Rifle	2	4	5
Beam Rifle	2	5	5

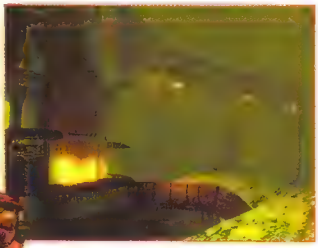
SUMMARY

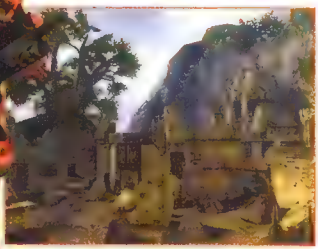
The heavy weapons have highly specialized roles in Halo 2; don't expect any all-in-one solutions. And at close range, there are no surprises: The Shotgun and Energy Sword still dominate brawls. Take careful note of the Battle Rifle; its prominent placement in the new maps means you'll be spending more time with it than ever. The only true upgrade relates to the Brute Shot, which is now much more powerful than before.

Just In!



Fans of the first Halo may recognize the new level Warlock, which is based off of the classic Slayer map Wizard





What's Up with the Halo 2 Multiplayer Map Pack?

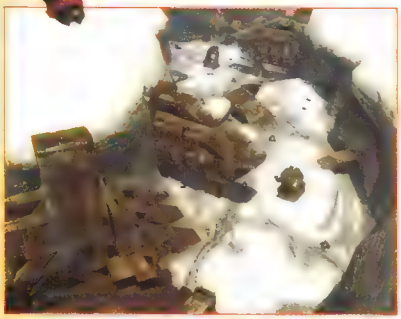
Halo 2 fans have waited patiently for a fresh batch of bitchin' new multiplayer maps. And guess what? They're here, and they're spectacular.

If you're sick of the same old multiplayer levels (Coagulation…shudder), Halo 2 Multiplayer Map Pack is like mana from Heaven. It's an add-on that upgrades your current copy of Halo 2 with new multiplayer arenas, a game-balancing Auto Update, and some cool cinematic treats. If you love Halo 2, you'll find much to celebrate here.

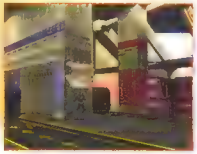
First things first—the new maps are fantastic. They're infinitely more interesting than the drab levels that shipped with the original game. There are nine in all, and they're not only tactically flexible and strategically sound, but they're also absolutely friggin' gorgeous. Looking at the sun-bleached island of Relic and the sprawling cityscape of Turf, it's hard to believe it's already time to jump to a new generation of consoles. Are these godly graphics really so out of date? You'll dodge bullet trains in the cityscape of Terminal, slither through tangled tree roots in Backwash, and peer down eerie alien corridors in Gemini. Fans will flip. The retail version also comes with a slick new rendered cinema, which tells a neat side-tale to the Covenant's Earth invasion.

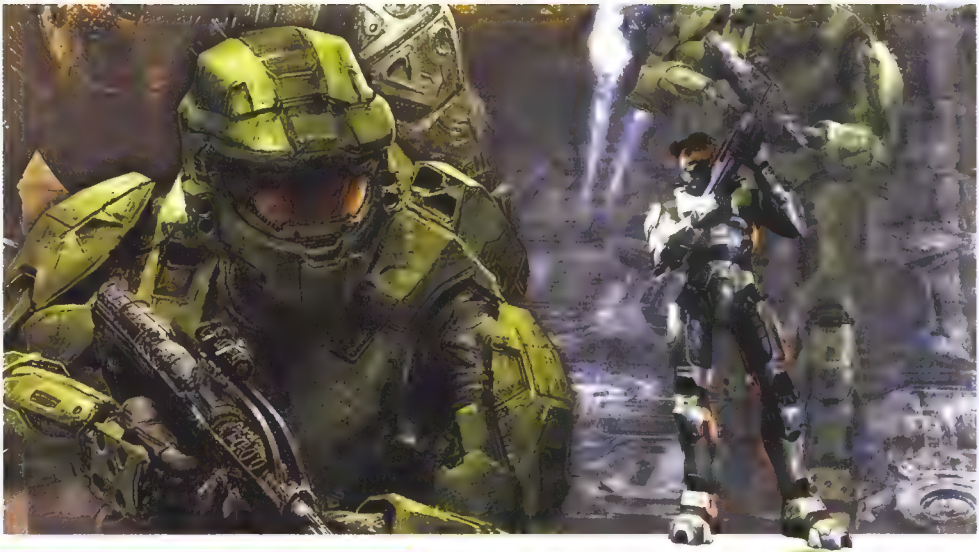
In a smart move, Bungie also took this opportunity to correct some irritating gameplay quirks in the multiplayer mode. If you've been playing online, you've probably already noticed this. Hand-to-hand attacks, for instance, are now far more powerful than before. Grenades are more effective, too: They explode faster and inflict crippling damage. The weapons were barely touched (save for the upgraded Brute Shot), but you'll find that the most annoyingly overpowered dual-wield combos have been toned down a touch. Last but not least, the Multiplayer Map Pack fixes the worst Xbox Live cheats and hacks; no more exploits like flag bouncing, Sword flying, or modem disconnecting. The result is a leaner, tighter, more balanced experience for all players.

You get the nine multiplayer maps, the videos, and gameplay balance upgrades on one DVD for just 20 bucks. Of course, you can always buy these maps through Xbox Live for a few dollars less. But then again, you'll be able to download all of it later this summer for free. Pay or wait? Decisions, decisions.



The snowy wastes of Containment make for a well-balanced game of Capture the Flag





Building the Ultimate Halo 2 Game Variant

Is Xbox Live your new social environment? Then you need to come prepared. Why settle for Halo 2's bland, built-in game types when you can create a new classic? Here are a few in-house favorites to get you started, plus tips to help you create your own masterpiece.

SLAYER VARIANTS

Increasingly, the trend is to move away from the Motion Tracker-based games. Close-combat matches (primarily involving SMGs, Magnums, and Plasma Rifles) are also en vogue. Overall, Slayer games are among the easiest to create.

Swords No Radar

This prebuilt variant is a timeless classic. Novices will be able to keep up and learn a few tricks while they're at it, while experts can subtly hone their skills. Add Shotguns for a fun twist.

Recommended Maps: Lockout, Ivory Tower, Backwash, Warlock, Midship

Pistols Plus

Dual Magnums and Battle Rifles are wonderfully complex weapons, a point that's highlighted by this precision-oriented custom game. Head shots are key.

Settings

Weapon Set: Pistols
Starting Weapon: Magnum
Secondary Weapon: Battle Rifle (or Carbine)
Recommended Maps: Midship, Warlock, Lockout, Backwash, Gemini

JUGGERNAUT

This oft-ignored game mode is actually one of the most addictive. The key is to keep the Juggernaut from being overwhelmingly powerful. Try to make resilient, powerful 'Nauts move more slowly.

Termi'Nauter

The Juggernaut here will be a lumbering monstrosity that eats bullets for breakfast. Hasta la vista!

Settings

Motion Sensor: Off
Juggernaut Extra Damage: Off
Juggernaut Overshield: On
Juggernaut Motion Sensor: Off
Juggernaut Movement: Slow
Juggernaut Damage Resistance: On
Weapon Set: Shotguns, Random, Human, All Duals
Recommended Maps: Foundation, Beaver Creek, Warlock, Gemini, Burial Grounds

Xeno'Naut

Relive the Alien movies as your squad hunts a powerful, speedy foe using motion trackers. Or turn the tables and give the Xeno'Naut sole use of the motion tracker.

Settings

Motion Sensor: On
Juggernaut Extra Damage: On
Juggernaut Overshield: Off
Juggernaut Motion Sensor: Off
Juggernaut Movement: Fast
Juggernaut Damage Resistance: On
Weapon Set: Swords, No Duals, No Sniping
Recommended Maps: Gemini, Backwash, Midship, Lockout, Burial Grounds

ODDBALL

Oddball matches require a deft touch with game options. Avoid gimmicky stuff (multiballs? Puh-lease) and focus on the basics.

Rollerball

The ball makes you super-fast. But you're vulnerable, so don't get cocky!

Settings
Speed with Ball: Fast
Toughness with Ball: Off
Weapon Sets: Shotguns, Rifles, Pistols, Human, Random
Recommended Maps: Gemini, Backwash, Lockout, Midship, Ascension

Shadow Ball
You're tough and invisible, but slow. It won't take long for them to find you…

Settings
Speed with Ball: Slow
Toughness with Ball: On Active Camo with Ball: On
Weapon Sets: Swords, Halo Classic, Shotgun, Human Recommended Maps: Warlock, Lockout, Midship, Beaver Creek

CAPTURE THE FLAG
In Halo 2 CTF, stalemates are common. Spice things up by tweaking variables like movement speed and Active Camo, and always make the flag inflict Massive melee damage.

Black Flag
This is a tense CTF variant as the flag carrier earns the gift of invisibility. The lack of a Motion Tracker means you'll need to keep your peepers peeled for raiding parties.

Settings
Motion Sensor: Off
Flag Touch Return: Off (15 Seconds)
Slow with Flag: On
Damage Resist: Off
Active Camo: On
Weapon Sets: Pistols, No Snipers, Rockets, Swords
Recommended Maps: Sanctuary, Relic, Containment, Gemini, Zanzibar

Flags to Riches
Weapons globally inflict far more damage, but holding the flag grants a boost to defense and speed. Defending teams may want to deploy a defensive sniper in a last-ditch effort to keep the speedy flag-carrier from literally running away with a victory.

Settings
Motion Sensor: On
Extra Damage: On
Flag Touch Return: Off (30 Seconds)
Slow with Flag: Off
Damage Resist: On
Starting Weapon: Magnum, Shotgun, Random
Weapon Sets: Rockets, Rifles, Random
Recommended Maps: Terminal, Relic, Coagulation, Turf

KING OF THE HILL
Oft-ignored but addictive, this quirky game mode has some interesting options to play with. It's best to grant at least one power to the King of the Hill.

Dark Mountain
The King dishes out more damage and is invisible to boot. Uh-oh….

Settings
Uncontested Hill: Off
Moving Hill: On
Team Time Multiplier: On
Extra Damage: On
Active Camo on Hill: On
Starting Weapon: Shotgun, Rockets, SMG
Weapon Sets: New Classic, Shotguns, Human, Random
Recommended Maps: Warlock, Backwash, Gemini, Turf

MOVIE MAYHEM
These two quirky movie-themed custom modes have proven to be quite popular on Xbox Live. Try them with your friends!

Halo-Ween
The inventor of this tense, atmospheric Xbox Live game has proven to be as elusive as Michael Meyers himself. Start by creating a custom Team Slayer variant, and use the following settings.

Player Options
Lives Per Round: 2
Motion Sensor: Off
Team Options
Team Play: On
Team Changing: Off
Force Even Teams: Off

Equipment Options
Starting Weapon: Magnum
Secondary Weapon: Energy Sword
Starting Grenades: Off
Weapons on Map: None
Grenades on Map: Off
Recommended Levels: Backwash, Turf, Midship, Lockout, Sanctuary

Setup
The more players, the merrier; try to get at least eight players. Designate one player as "Michael Meyers" and make him the Red team. All the "Victims" stay on the Blue team. The Michael Meyers player also needs an Xbox Live headset and some scary music—the creepy piano theme from the flick Halloween (check blogcore.com for a link to the music) is perfect, but feel free to experiment with others. The goal is to broadcast this music into the game using your Xbox Live headset. Set the music on Repeat and place the headset about two feet from the speaker. Moderate volume should be fine, but PC speakers may need higher volume.

The Rules
The rules are simple. Michael Meyers is the only player who can attack, and he can only attack with his Energy Sword. Period. Meanwhile, the Victims must rely on hiding, running and sneaking through the shadows to avoid him. Motion Sensors are totally disabled in this game, but Victims should easily hear Michael Meyers as he approaches thanks to the creepy music blasting through his headset. Even though they have weapons, the Victims may never shoot or attack Michael Meyers—they must flee. The very last victim left alive may use his Magnum to shoot and kill the Michael Meyers player; if he succeeds, the Victim team wins. But if Michael Meyers completely kills all the Victims (who get two lives each), he wins.

Day of the Dead
Like in Halo-ween, this Custom Variant requires that players will cooperate with the established rules. Explain the rules before playing. Once the groundwork is laid, the real battle can begin. Set this up as a Team Slayer game.

Player Options
Lives Per Round: 2 (or Infinite)

Team Options
Team Play: On
Team Changing: On
Force Even Teams: Off

Equipment Options
Starting Weapon: Magnum
Starting Grenades: Off
Weapons on Map: Human, Shotguns, Swords
Grenades on Map: Off
Recommended Maps: Foundation, Turf, Sanctuary, Backwash

Setup
You'll want a larger party—shoot for eight players minimum. Start with just one Zombie player and make him the White team. All other players are Humans and have the advantage of numbers…at first, anyway. Optional variations on this game include substituting the Human's SMG for a Shotgun, Battle Rifle, Magnum or Sniper Rifle.

The Rules
Fairly simple: When a member of the Human team is killed, that person must switch teams to join the White Zombies (you must first enable this feature in the Custom Variant menu). If you've been killed, you must switch teams and attack your former teammates. Because the team switch isn't automatic—each player must know to switch when killed—it's important to clarify the rules with all players before starting the round. The game ends when all players are Zombies.

PROSTRATEGY GUIDE

DESTROY ALL HUMANS!

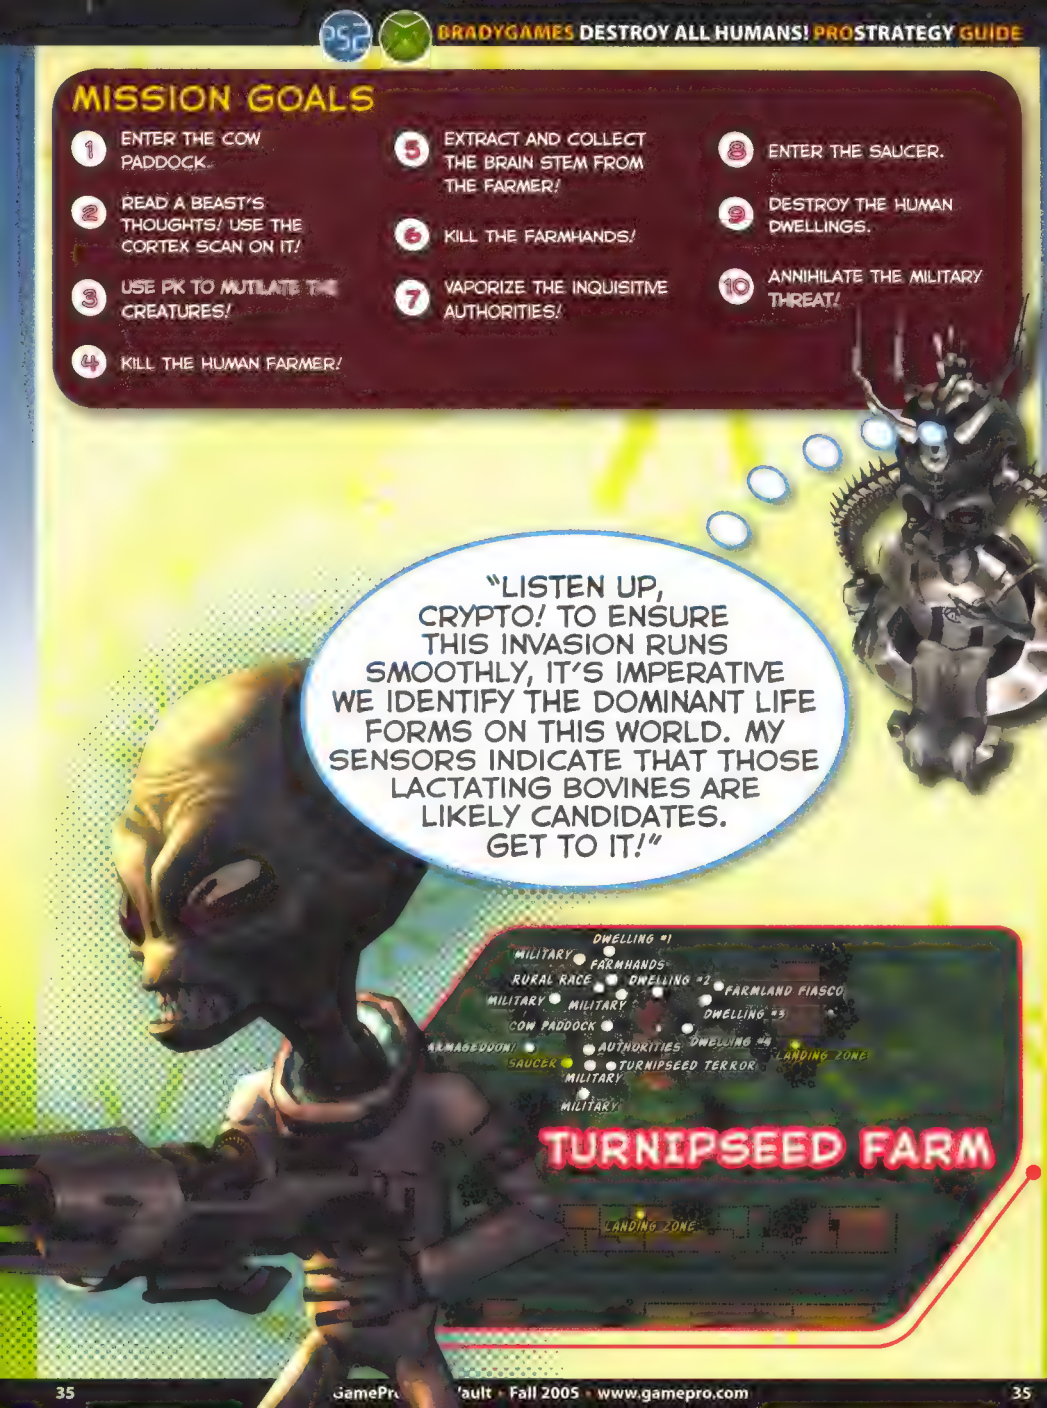
Mission 1

DESTINATION EARTH!

Buy the Official Guide at bradygames.com

MISSION GOALS

1. ENTER THE COW PADDOCK.
2. READ A BEAST'S THOUGHTS! USE THE CORTEX SCAN ON IT!
3. USE PK TO MUTILATE THE CREATURES!
4. KILL THE HUMAN FARMER!
5. EXTRACT AND COLLECT THE BRAIN STEM FROM THE FARMER!
6. KILL THE FARMHANDS!
7. VAPORIZE THE INQUISITIVE AUTHORITIES!
8. ENTER THE SAUCER.
9. DESTROY THE HUMAN DWELLINGS.
10. ANNIHILATE THE MILITARY THREAT!



1 ENTER THE COW PADDOCK.

Before embarking on this mission of invading Earth, it's important to come to grips with Crypto's many extraterrestrial powers. To start, head over to the cow paddock, jump over the fence, and approach the highlighted cow.

PSYCHOKINETIC TELEMETRY

During Crypto's time on Earth, he will receive Psychokinetic telemetry from the Mothership. The data either appears on the area map in the lower-right corner of the screen or as virtual indicators floating over noteworthy creatures or objects in the vicinity.

Tip

2 READ A BEAST'S THOUGHTS! USE THE CORTEX SCAN ON IT!

Scan the first cow in the area to see its thoughts, which are primitive yet profound. Select a second bovine and scan it as well.

Cortex Scan

Performing a Cortex Scan enables Crypto to read the thoughts of any unsuspecting creature. To implement a Cortex Scan, select a target and press and hold the Probe button (when done correctly, the Cortex Scan option appears on the Ability Menu in the left corner of the screen). While holding down the Probe button, press the Cortex Scan button. You can scan a creature's mind (human or otherwise) as long as the Cortex Scan button is held until the target's thoughts have been ripped from its puny little brain.

Tip

HEY, WHAT'CHA THINKIN?

Virtual indicators appear over certain objects, creatures, and human beings as thought bubbles. Learn to read them as they can help gauge the object's current state, which can include surprise, curiosity, and even hostility. when a human has a thought bubble over his head, he will usually have helpful mission-related information to learn. Read these people first as their thoughts will be more beneficial.

3 USE PK TO MUTILATE THE CREATURES!

After scanning two cows, Crypto has a brief verbal exchange with one of the herd. Unfortunately, it doesn't go as planned as he quite literally ends up getting dumped on. Show them who's boss by performing Psychokinesis!

Use PK on another unsuspecting cow and either slam it into the ground or use PK Push to hurl it skyward. Orthopox (or Pox, for short) wants Crypto to "PK" a total of six cows—that should teach them!

Psychokinesis

Furons can do more with their massive cerebra other than scanning lesser minds. The art of Psychokinesis (PK) enables Crypto to elevate and move objects many times his own weight. To use PK on a living creature or inanimate object, target it and press and hold the Probe button (when done correctly, the PK ability appears on the Ability Menu). While holding down the Probe button, tap the PK button to lift the object into the air. You can use the Right Analog Stick to move it around as well as slam it into the ground. Once the object has been PKed into the air, you can also PK Push it by tapping the PK button as well as reel the object in and out.

Use the Area Map to locate additional cows if you're having trouble finding all six of them. They are represented by pink dots. It's possible to eliminate multiple cows (or enemies) by using PK Push to hurl them into each other. Once a cow has been PKed, use the Right Analog Stick to aim it at another one and toss it.

NEED TO CONCENTRATE

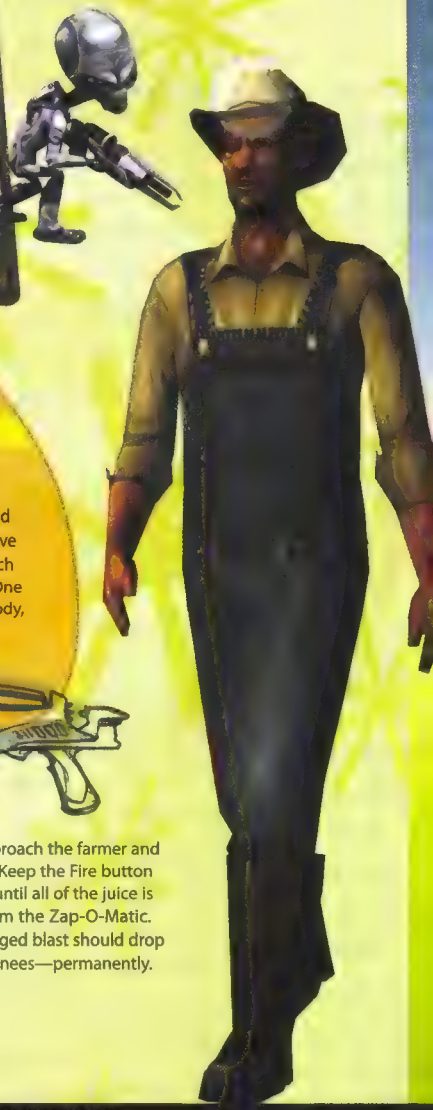
Tip

Using mental abilities drains Crypto's Concentration. The Concentration Meter, located at the top-left of the screen, represents Crypto's psychic energy. When the Concentration Meter has been completely drained, he won't be able to use his powers until it's been refilled. Concentration blips are recharged by scanning humans and also slowly recharges over time.

CONCENTRATION METER

4 KILL THE HUMAN FARMER!

A farmer comes out of the nearby house thinking he smells some good ol' country BBQ. What he will find instead is that he is on the menu!



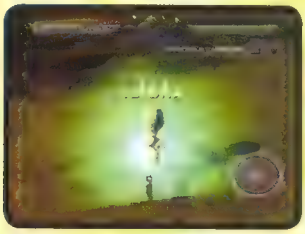
Zap-O-Matic

While it may not be the mightiest weapon in a Furon's arsenal, a few prolonged blasts of the Zap-O-Matic will fry any human being into a quivering mass of skin and bones. To fire the Zap-O-Matic, press and hold the Fire button. To target the weapon, use the Right Analog Stick to move the targeting reticule. Firing the Zap-O-Matic drains its batteries, which means that you must wait for them to recharge before firing again. One advantage of the Zap-O-Matic is that it will not destroy the human body, meaning you can still extract the brain or Holobob them.

Quickly approach the farmer and fry him up! Keep the Fire button depressed until all of the juice is drained from the Zap-O-Matic. One prolonged blast should drop him to his knees—permanently.

5 EXTRACT AND COLLECT THE BRAIN STEM FROM THE FARMER!

After eliminating the farmer, be sure to grab a souvenir in the form of his brain stem. To do so, target the farmer and extract that brain!

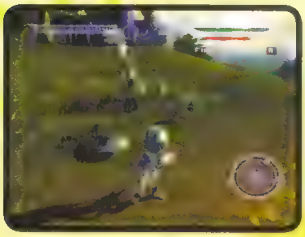


There are a few things to note about brain extraction and DNA. You can use the collected DNA to trade for some nice upgrades back at the Mothership. Also, DNA is used to unlock other missions.

Brain Extraction

This is what the mission is all about: extracting Furon DNA from the humans' brain stems. After killing a human, target its corpse and hold down the Probe button. Extract the brain by pressing and holding the Extract button. Mashing the button will result in a faster brain removal. It is possible to extract the brain of a live human, but it is much more difficult than extracting the brain of a dead human. Lastly, living brains yield a higher DNA since they are fresher.

The task now is to zap a total of three farmhands, which shouldn't be too difficult. However, they are carrying shotguns, so be careful and keep moving. Use the Area Map to locate each farmhand and give him the shake and bake!



A good way to avoid taking too much damage is to strafe around your target, circling it while zapping it with the Zap-O-Matic. Remember: A moving target is much tougher to hit than a stationary one.

6 KILL THE FARMHANDS!

As soon as the farmer's brain has been extracted, the dead farmer's wife emerges from the house and screams with horror at the sight of an alien lifeform. Her screams alert the neighbors. It's a good thing Crypto is equipped with a Shield.

Shield

The Shield protects Crypto from damage, although it gets depleted with repeated attacks. The Shield Energy Bar is located at the top right of the screen, and evading combat for a short period of time allows it to recharge. If the Shield is completely depleted, Crypto will become vulnerable; further injuries result in a quick trip to the Mothership's cloning chambers, where a cloned version of Crypto will be produced and sent back to Earth.

7 VAPORIZE THE INQUISITIVE AUTHORITIES!

As soon as all three farmhands have been eliminated, the local authorities appear and find the alien spacecraft—that's no good. Now that they've discovered it, it's time to take them out.

8 ENTER THE SAUCER.

Once the threat has been quelled, Crypto is called back to his saucer. Be sure to extract all the brain stems in and around the area, then walk underneath the saucer to get beamed inside the ship. The ship is noted on the Area Map marked by a blue dot.

Now it's time to clean up this mess and show the locals you mean business! The saucer has been built with the latest in Furon state-of-the-art technology and comes standard equipped with a menacing and deadly Death Ray. Why not lay waste to the landscape and surrounding structures?

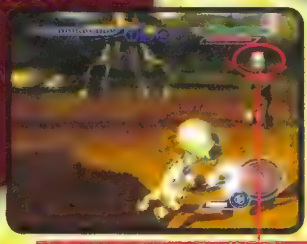
Death Ray

To fire the saucer's Death Ray, press and hold the Fire button. Doing so causes a continuous beam of searing energy to hit the ground, cutting a swath of destruction through anything it touches. Although the Death Ray has unlimited energy, it will overheat if it is fired for long periods of time. When this occurs, you must let it cool down between shots.

IT'S GOOD TO BE SNEAKY

It's possible to use stealth and distance to sneak up on an unsuspecting human prey. Stay out of their sight range by referring to the virtual indicators over their heads. A question mark indicates they have seen something, but they're still unsure. One exclamation mark means they definitely saw something and will investigate, while two exclamation marks mean you've been spotted.

Tip



YOU'VE BEEN SPOTTED!

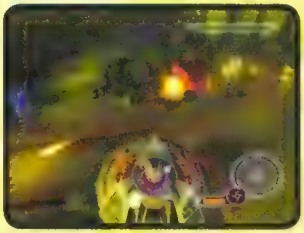
9 DESTROY THE HUMAN DWELLINGS.

Controlling the saucer is relatively easy. Use the Left Analog Stick to move forward and reverse as well as to turn left and right. The Right Analog Stick is used to strafe. Just be careful with this pride of the Furon fleet—you break it, you pay for it!

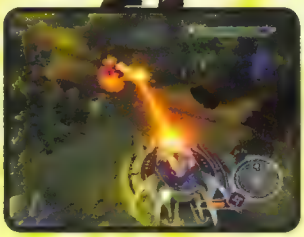
Use the Area Map and virtual indicators to locate the buildings and structures Pox wants destroyed. To flatten a building to the ground, position the saucer so that the laser reticule is targeted over it and let 'er rip. It takes multiple strikes to flatten most structures, so let the Death Ray cool down between blasts and shoot again. There are a total of four structures to destroy: the farmhouse by the lake, the docks, the barn, and the silo.

10 ANNIHILATE THE MILITARY THREAT!

The moment Crypto drops the final structure to the ground, the "human military industrial complex" shows up. If their leaders find out about the alien presence, the mission is cooked! Turn the Death Ray on them!



Now there are ground units and tanks firing at the saucer. At the moment, there are two cargo trucks and a tank that need to be eliminated. Stay moving to avoid the tank's mortar fire and take it out first, then focus your attention on the other targets.



As soon as the first set of vehicles and troops have been destroyed, a new wave appears to the north through the bushes. Locate and take them out, then find and eliminate the last group.

When the dust settles, two G-Men appear in an unmarked car. They mention something about Silhouette, the worst scenario, and Roswell. The plot thickens....

CRUNCHY ON THE OUTSIDE

The saucer can only take so much damage before it is destroyed, taking Crypto along with it. To gauge the saucer's current state of damage, keep an eye on the Integrity Meter, which is located in the top-right of the screen. The only way to repair its hull is to find a Repair Pod, which Pox will drop when certain buildings have been destroyed.

The Man Behind The Furons

WE WENT RIGHT TO THE CREATIVE SOURCE OF DESTROY ALL HUMANS! HERE'S AN INTERVIEW WITH THE DIRECTOR, BRAD WELCH.

BradyGames: First, can you tell us who you are and what your role is for your company?
My name is Brad Welch, and I am the lead designer and director on Destroy All Humans! at Pandemic Studios—Australia.

B: What major titles have you worked on?
BW: I worked on Dark Reign back in the day with quite a lot of the people that now work with me at Pandemic. More recently, I worked on Army Men RTS at Pandemic.

B: As the director of Destroy All Humans!, what's a typical day like for you?
BW: My days on Destroy All Humans! were always a busy mixed bag. At times I was knee deep in design issues, then talking to our producer at THQ, planning for the next milestone with the other leads and producer, discussing the design of enemy, reviewing the implementation of a particular feature with programmers, play testing and reviewing the game, working with the writer and designers on the voice-over scripts, and sitting in on voice recording sessions (in L.A. time mind you, so my days started at 2:00 a.m. for those weeks). Oh, and I built one of the missions. It's the sort of job where there's always more to do than you have time in the day.

B: What's your favorite character in the game and why?
BW: Crypto is my favorite. You get to play as him, he likes blowing stuff up, and he has all the cool toys. I have a soft spot for the villains. Working with our writer and voice actors, and then the work the artists, animators, and cinematics guys did on the characters was an awesome process. It was awesome seeing everything come to life and be as entertaining as I hoped it would be.

B: Destroy All Humans! has a distinctive 1950s theme. What was the rationale behind choosing this era as a backdrop for the game?
BW: We wanted a setting that would bring style and humor to the game, and all the B movies are set in the 1950s, so it was really a no-brainer. The 1950s setting gave the artists, designers, and writers a lot of great source material.

B: On a related note, with the current buzz in the movie industry revolving around alien premises (like War of the Worlds), Destroy All Humans! is launching at a perfect time. Since the game has been in development for so long, were there specific films, other games, or books that inspired your alien theme?
BW: It's been kind of lucky that the game was released around the same time as War of the Worlds and the last Star Wars—we certainly didn't plan for it when we started. The influential films were all the great 1950s B movies: The Day the Earth Stood Still, Earth vs. the Flying Saucers, Invasion of the Body Snatchers and the original George Pal version of War of the Worlds.

B: What's your favorite sci-fi movie?
BW: 2001: A Space Odyssey or Star Wars: Episode IV A New Hope—depending on whether I'm in a film snob or geek mood.

B: What has been your favorite aspect about this project?
BW: Hands down: working with good people on an original title. It's getting rarer and rarer to get the chance to build an original game and then have it really supported so strongly by the publisher.

B: After finishing the game, what did you expect people to say about it?
BW: "Destroy All Humans! was fun, new, and there was a bunch of cool and different ways to play the game."

B: Same question, but insert "want" instead of "expect."
BW: "This is the most fun I've ever had playing a game."

B: What's been the most challenging aspect of the project...and the most fun?
BW: The toughest thing was nailing down exactly what the balance of the gameplay was—getting the right mix of shooting, stealth, manipulation, UFO use, and exploration. The most fun part is always seeing something new going into the game and getting to try it out and it being cooler than you expected—be it a new mission, weapon, feature, or character.

"Crypto is my favorite. You get to play as him, he likes blowing stuff up, and he has all the cool toys."—Brad Welch

"We wanted a setting that would bring style and humor to the game."—Brad Welch

I GENERALLY DON'T EAT WHILE GAMING, ALTHOUGH I TEND TO DRINK A LOT OF ORANGE JUICE. DURING DEVELOPMENT I DRANK AN INSANE AMOUNT OF DIET COKE, BUT I'M OFF THE CAFFEINE AGAIN.

B: How long have you been in the industry?
BW: Twelve years. I must be getting old, but thankfully I have remained immature. It helps a lot.

B: What have you done in the gaming industry prior to joining the Pandemic team?
BW: I worked with a lot of the same people at another local developer, and before that I was self employed making games with a few friends from university.

B: What part or aspect of the game are you most proud?
BW: The depth and humor in the world and the number of ways the player has to mess around with that world and its inhabitants.

B: In your opinion, what gameplay trends are going to be most prevalent in the years ahead? Will developers continue to follow the lead of Grand Theft Auto: San Andreas, with its vast and sprawling experiences etc?
BW: Certainly at Pandemic we're looking towards continuing with open-world games by combining world simulation, human and enemy A.I., environment destructability, and physics into a complete package to set a game in. It's challenging to design for the varied situations that can occur in these types of games, but you're putting a lot of power and variety in the player's hands which is a good thing. Having said that, there's plenty of good cases for tighter, more directed game experiences, they won't go away—its just not what we are making at the moment.

B: So, you survived another Electronic Entertainment Expo (like most of us here). What was your favorite game of the show? In general, what's your favorite thing about E³?
BW: Okami looks very interesting, the new Zelda looks great, and I'm (still) looking forward to Final Fantasy XII. All the new hardware was exciting, but as for next-generation games, there were mostly sequels, and that was a bit disappointing. E³ can be fun—when there are good games to check out. As an exhibitor, though, you get to see the other side. When we showed Destroy All Humans! at the THQ booth last year, it was work, work, work, demoing nonstop for three days straight with barely enough time to eat let alone check out the show! However, it's cool showing your game and checking out people's reactions to your work.

B: What's your current gaming obsession?
BW: Lumines on the PSP and Resident Evil 4 on the GameCube.

B: Favorite food to snack on while gaming?
BW: I generally don't eat while gaming, although I tend to drink a lot of orange juice. During development I drank an insane amount of Diet Coke, but I'm off the caffeine again.

B: Last but not least, would you be willing to provide us with a picture of yourself for this article?
BW: I'm sorry, that's classified. If my face was shown, well, "they" would know who to make disappear. Better just show a silhouette or pixellated head. GV

Mission 5

Darkwatch Outpost Snowbound Secrets And Bloody Slaughter

Initial Objective: Guided by Cassidy's ghost, you find the Darkwatch Outpost. But all is not as it seems....

Jericho stumbles through the snow into the Darkwatch Outpost but finds that Lazarus's undead have already arrived and slaughtered its inhabitants. With Cassidy as your guide, you must find your way through the outpost to survivors.

Approach the doors to the outer compound of the outpost. Grab the Range Rifle propped up against the left door and then duck behind the snowy mound just in front of the opened doors.

There are three patrolling Riflemen inside the compound with a fourth on the rampart on the far wall. Switch to your Sniper Rifle and zoom in to clear all four out with headshots. Take your time when aiming—you only start with eight bullets.

Head into the compound and go right. Grab the Riflemen's fallen guns for additional Sniper Rifle ammo. A dead Darkwatch Regulator and a Shotgun are along the path. Pick up the Shotgun; it works well with the Sniper Rifle.

You can now go left through an archway or walk slightly ahead to go left along a wooden walkway. Go up onto the walkway and turn left. Two Riflemen are far ahead. Zoom in with your Sniper Rifle and kill them. Run across the walkway and past their dead bodies.

There's a Rifleman on your left. If you move cautiously, it won't see you. Kill it with a sniper shot and continue on. The path veers left, but there's a small house with a tainted victim, some Sniper Rifles, and another Shotgun nearby.

Release the victim inside. As soon as you enter the house, two Riflemen erupt from the floor. These Riflemen are using Redeemers and are close, so switch to your Shotgun to kill them. Now continue back on the path.

Three Reapers soon jump out of the snow and attack you. Use your Shotgun and continue forward. There's a patrolling Rifleman at the end of the path. Switch to your Sniper Rifle, kill him, and then continue on the path as it turns left.

Ahead and to the left is the entry into the actual outpost. Cassidy now tells you to find a Ghost Door somewhere inside.

New Weapon: Range Rifle

Key to Items

D - Dynamite
BC - Healing Container
R - Rifleman
V - Twisted Vampire
DP - Dual Pistols
MC - Mental Checker
SL - Sniper Location

As you enter, you learn it's a trap. The Ghost Door is straight ahead inside a small building, but the door closes behind you, and various undead burst from the ground to attack.

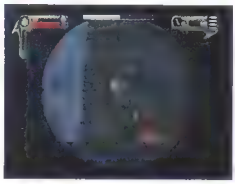
Mission Objective: Clear the Fort of Evil

Now your mission is to destroy this infestation of undead. A white health bar appears at the top of your screen to record your progress. As you kill enemies, the bar shrinks. Use your vampire power. Silver Bullet is excellent for killing the Riflemen, while Blood Frenzy significantly improves hand-to-hand damage. Both are ideal in this situation.

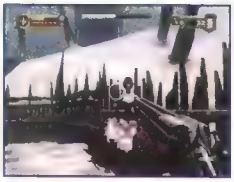
There are two Riflemen wielding Redeemers ahead and a single Reaper rushing you. Shoot the TNT barrel behind the Riflemen to destroy them and then smack the Reaper when it gets close.

Get ready for some action. Two more Reapers and a Redeemer Rifleman appear to the left. Right after that, two more Reapers and a Redeemer Rifleman come in from the right, followed by another several Reapers straight ahead.

After this last wave is eliminated, go out into the inner compound of the outpost. There's a Rifleman on the upper rampart to the right. Run up the left or right ramp to the rampart and kill him. When he drops, another Rifleman appears across the way on the roof of the Ghost Door building. Switch to your Sniper Rifle to toast him.



When the Rifleman falls, Banshees appear. They float in from the right wall of the outpost. Drop down into the outpost and find cover behind some ramps or walls. Make the Banshees come to you and kill them at point-blank range with your Shotgun. After the second Banshee falls, two Reapers burst out from the ramparts, followed by two more incoming Banshees.



Remember to use the cover to your advantage and save your ammo for the Banshees. As they fall, two more Reapers appear, and two Banshees float in from the left. When the last of the Reapers and Banshees are killed, head into the Ghost Door

Jumping through the Ghost Door turns out to be a bad move. Instead of taking you to the Darkwatch Citadel, it leaves you in some strange frozen complex. Even Cassidy doesn't know where you are

Walk down the path toward a room where experiments dangle from the ceiling in glass cages. Three Redeemer Riflemen are in the room. The tunnel through the complex continues left out of this room.

As you pass through a door, you see some Reapers skulking ahead of you, but they can't reach you yet. Turn left and enter what looks a laboratory. A tortured scientist is lying prone on a table inside.

Stock Up Tip!

Before heading through the Ghost Door, be sure to scrounge around the outpost for ammo for your Shotgun.

Now take the path out of the lab. As it turns right, you see corpses dangling from hooks on the ceiling. Step forward, and five Reapers burst from the ground to attack. If you have dynamite, toss a stick at them as soon as you see the plumes of dirt kick up from their eruption. The explosion and your Shotgun should kill them quickly. Cassidy now suspects that this place could be some unauthorized Darkwatch complex where undead are being bred.

Continue as the path turns right and doubles back. The path then turns left. Four Reapers and a Redeemer Rifleman now erupt from the floor. Back up to use the corner for cover from the Rifleman and hack down the Reapers quickly.

To your left of where the ambush took place is a small room with a tainted victim and some dynamite. Release the victim and grab the dynamite before continuing.

The path soon ends and you find yourself in daylight. It looks like you have to summon your vampire horse and ride the rest of the way to the Darkwatch Citadel. CV
